ARRIVAL OF THE WESTERN METROPOLIS

The Steamer Maple Leaf Blown Up by a Torpedo.

NEARLY ALL THE PASSENGERS SAVED.

WRECK OF THE GUNBOAT KINGFISHER.

Skirmishing with the Rebels in Florida.

The United States steam-transport Western Metropolis, from Hilton Head in 70 hours, arrived at this port yesterday afternoon. She brings the following interesting intelligence:

OUR HILTON HEAD CORRESPONDENCE

Destruction of the Maple Leaf—Hunting for Torpedoes—Wreck of the Kingfisher—Skirmishing with the Rebels.

HILTON HEAD, Tuesday, April 5, 1864.

DESTRUCTION OF THE STEAMER MAPLE LEAF.

At 4 o'clock on the morning of Friday, the 1st inst., the army steam-transport Maple Leaf, while passing down the St. John's River, from Pilatka to Jacksonville, Fla., ran against a torpedo, moored in the stream twelve miles above the latter place, which exploded and sent the vessel to the bottom.

At the time of the explosion the Maple Leaf had on board about forty persons, including the officers and crew, all of whom escaped harm or capture, except two firemen and three deck-hands, who were sleeping on the deck, near the forecastle, and who were instantly killed, either by the falling of a portion of the upper works, or by the tremendous force of the concussion. The persons thus killed were colored.

All the passengers, among whom were three ladies, including Mrs. Capt. Chadwick, immediately took to two small boats belonging to the steamer and made for Jacksonville, which place they reached at about 8 A. M. Nearly all the passengers were asleep when the event occurred, and no time whatever was afforded for looking after personal baggage. All that was saved in the way of clothing was what the persons wore when they left the vessel.

On board the Maple Leaf was the camps and garrison equipage of three regiments of Gen. Foster's Brigade, also the peosonal baggage of the officers. Gen. Foster himself is a heavy sufferer. Two sutlers had property on board valued at $20,000. Everything is lost. The property was put on board the Maple Leaf at Hilton Head, and it was the intention to take it off at Jacksonville when the vessel had reached that point, but she had no sooner arrived than she was immediately despatched to Pilatka, on urgent business, which accounts for the property having been on board.

The steamer sank in deep water, so that nothing but the top of her wheel-houses and a portion of the smoke-stack appeared to view. During the day the rebels shelled away this visible portion of the wreck, so that now nothing is to be seen of it. The Maple Leaf was an old vessel, having been built in 1844, and was owned by parties in Boston. She was formerly run on the St. Lawrence River, and in this department she was used for a long time to ply between here and St. Augustin, Fla. She was a finely built boat, but of rather slow speed, and can be better spared than some other vessels in the service. Her Commander, Capt. W. H. Dale, and officers, arrived her to-day, and intend going North on the Western Metropolis to-morrow. The Captain's wife and sister-in-law, who have lived on the boat for several months, happenea to be at Beaufort on Friday.

The torpedo must have been very large and powerful, for when it exploded it threw the bow of the steamer completely out of water, and sent the forecastle flying several feet in the air. The pilot-house was detached and shivered to pieces, and the pilot very narrowly escaped serious injury. Nothing of the vessel or cargo to the value of a sixpence was saved.

MORE TORPEDOES.

Gen. Hatch, as soon as the news of the explosion reached him, dispatched three companies of the Seventh Connecticut Regiment up the river in boats to act as a patrol, and to seek other torpedoes, which deserters reported were in the stream. In twenty-four hours' time, they sent back a torpedo, which they discovered about ten miles up the river; also, a number of deserters from New-York regiments, whom they captured some distance up on the left bank. The deserters had erected a tent, and obtained provisions from farmers. Other torpedoes are in the river and will doubtless be soon brought to light. They are of a peculiar construction, having three percussion prongs, and will explode at the least touch of a hammer.

The absurdity of keeping troops at Pilatka will be best explained when it is known that transports do not venture up the river only at night. The rebel pickets or guerrillas occupy the banks of the river, and at night their camp fires can be seen at irregular intervals. It is difficult to conceive the first military advantage to be gained by holding the place, and perhaps it would be quite as well for the troops to join the main force at Jacksonville, where, in case of a fight, they can be of some service.

A SKIRMISH.

On Saturday last Col. Guy V. Henry, with his Light Brigade and two regiments of infantry, started from their camp before Jacksonville, and proceeded toward the enemy's lines on a reconnoissance. When four miles out they came across the enemy's pickets, whom our men drove back to Six Mile Run—a distance of two miles. Here a brief skirmish occurred, during which artillery was used on both sides. Col. Henry discovered the exact position of the rebels, and ascertained that they had in line of battle before him 3,000 men. As his purpose was not to bring on a fight, he slowly returned toward his camp, but the enemy having shown a disposition to follow, Col. Henry formed his men in line of battle to receive him, which movement deterred the rebels from further advancing. Col. Henry captured one horse and twenty-five head of cattle, and had four men wounded. The rebels lost thirty in killed and wounded. The names of our wounded are: Corp. H. W. Hand, Company B; S. V. Partridge, Company B; A. Copeland, Company B, all of the Independent Battalion Massachusetts Cavalry; and R. B. Walsh, Company E, of Fortieth Massachusetts Mounted Infantry.

SKIRMISHES AT PILATKA.

On the 1st inst., Provost-Marshal S. P. Smith, with 35 men, proceeded from Pilatka up the St. John's River to Fort Gates—a distance of 30 miles. At this point they captured ten of the Fifty-fourth Georgia cavalry and three horses, all of which were brought into the camp at Pilatka.

On the same night the rebels made a dash on our advance pickets at Pilatka, and captured a sergeant and four men of the Independent Massachusetts Cavalry Battalion.

Since then there have been several encounters between the rebel and our own pickets, and there can be little doubt that the enemy is keeping a close watch on all our movements.

DESERTERS.

Last Sunday a rebel Captain came into our lines at Jacksonville and reported that the enemy had a force of 15,000 men between there and Baldwin. At Camp Finnigan there are about 2,000 rebel cavalry. It is also said the enemy has a considerable force between Gainesville and Pilatka.

A BOLD MOVEMENT.

On the 2d inst. Maj. A. H. Stevens, with a force of cavalry, left Jacksonville with a view of advancing into the interior some distance and then joining our forces at Pilatka. It is believed he has successfully accomplished the movement.

GUNBOATS

are continually patroling the river from Jacksonville to a point a long distance beyond Pilatka. A number of them are kept in the immediate vicinity of Pilatka, so in case of an attack upon our troops they will be ready to take a hand in. Thus far the gunboats on the St. John's have been of incalculable service.

WRECK OF THE GUNBOAT KINGFISHER.

The gunboat Kingfisher, which had been stationed off Otter Island for fifteen months, was blown ashore during the recent gale and went to pieces in a short time. She was an old vessel, and her planks below water were in a rotten condition. No lives were lost. Everything of value within her will be got off, either in a sound or damaged condition.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Provost-Marshal-General James F. Hall went North by the Arago on her last trip, on important official business. He will remain in New-York but a short time.

Three prisoners of the Sixth Connecticut Regiment, who attempted to escape from the guard-house two weeks since, were captured and brought back. Monday night, two of the same party again effected their escape, and as yet have not been heard of. They took with them a colored man for a guide. Their fetters were broken, not filed, and doubtless they received assistance from outside sources.

WHIT.

The Torpedoes—Gen. Hatch—A Fire.

HILTON HEAD, Friday, April 8.

Our men in cruising up the St. John's river, Fla., have discovered another torpedo, making ten of these machines picked up in that river within the past week. The rebels who assisted in placing them in the stream came into our lines as deserters, shortly after the occurrence of the Maple Leaf disaster, and accompanied our men on their expedition, for the purpose of pointing out the precise locality at which the torpedoes were planted.

Every day or two the rebels pick up a quarrel with our pickets at Pilatka. We hold our ground firmly at that point, and as yet the casualties consequent upon the picket skirmishes have been trifling.

Gen. J. P. Hatch, the new commander of the Florida District, meets with universal favor from officers and men. He is possessed of superior military judgment, and has introduced certain military changes and regulations which cannot fail to have a great influence in the successful accomplishment of the operations which he intends to inaugurate.

By order of Capt. Reynolds, of the Vermont, a number of vessels have been dispatched to the assistance of the wrecked gunboat Kingfisher. Everything of value, excepting her guns, have been removed. Her armament, which consisted of two 12-pounder howitzers, one 30-pounder Parrott and four 8-inch rifles will be got off in a short time.

It is the opinion of naval officers here that Admiral Dahlgren will not return to take command of the South Atlantic Squadron.

On the morning of the 6th inst., at 5 o'clock, a fire broke out in the building on the southern end of Folly Island, occupied by Quartermaster Atwood as an office and storehouse. The official and private papers of the Quartermaster were saved, but the building, together with a large quantity of clothing, camp and garrison equipage, and other articles, were entirely consumed. An investigation has been instituted to ascertain the origin of the fire. It is believed by some that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

On Wednesday night the pickets on Seabrook Island discovered a dug-out, containing three men, going up a small creek toward the enemy's lines. An unsuccessful effort was made to capture it. It is believed the men were the same that escaped from the guard-house Monday night.

I omitted to mention in the proper place that our transports ply between Jacksonville and Pilataka, now in the day-time, instead of at night. They are escorted by gunboats, and every precaution is taken to resist guerrilla attacks and to avoid torpedos. The river is thoroughly patroled and we shall not probably hear of any further torpedo disasters in that quarter.

The steamer Danirl Webster, which put in at this port in distress, has sailed, with the Fourteenth New-Hampshire troops, for New-Orleans.

The steamer Futton, from New-York on the 4th inst., arrived here this morning.

In the Court-martial case of Gen. Gordon, Quartermaster Bingham, who preferred the charges, was in the witness chair five days. The care is not yet concluded.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 12.

THE EXPULSION OF MR. LONG.

The excitement concerning the debate upon Mr. Colfax's resolution of expulsion, continued high to-day, but as the debatee progressed this evening, the interest seems to subside. It is almost certain that no vote will be taken to-night; and equally certain that the resolution of expulsion will not carry the necessary two-thirds vote. Green Clay Smith's speech was eloquent, and his intense Union utterances invariably called forth plaudits from the galleries in defiance of the Speaker's threats to clear them, and to the great disgust of Mr. Voorhees and his Copperhead confrères.

THE TAX BILL.

The Ways and Means Committee to-day completed the Tax Bill. It is to be printed before reported. They have adopted a proposition submitted by Mr. Odell, to impose a tax upon all brokers' sales of stocks, bonds, merchandise, &c. The scope of the Stamp Tax is largely extended. The tax imposed upon distilled spirits is one dollar and twenty-five cents; on tobacco, thirty cents per pound, with graduating scale. It is estimated by the committee that the bill will raise about three hundred millions of revenue. It will be reported on Thursday next.

THE MEXICAN QUESTION.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs to-day had under consideration the House joint resolution in regard to the Mexican question. The Committee, in accordance with the wishes of the Administration, determined to defer action for the present upon this and all other similar propositions, relating to legislation on the questions of our foreign relations. This kills the matter.

THE COLLECTION OF THE DIRECT TAX.

Mr. Chase, in answer to Congressional inquiries in regard to the employment of commissioners in insurrectionary districts, under the Treasury regulations, reports that the expenses attending their administration have been forty-three thousand dollars; and that they have paid into the Treasury of the United States five hundred thousand dollars.

THE TERRITORY OF MONTANA.

The House Committee on Territories have adopted the Senate's amendment to the bill organizing the Territory of Montana, allowing all persons the right of suffrage, regardless of color. It is doubtful whether it will be adopted by the House.

THE TREATMENT OF IMPRISONED SOLDIERS.

The Secretary of War has approved the recommendation of Congressman Odell, and issued orders accordingly, that the soldiers confined in New-York prisons be placed upon the same footing as State convicts, with reference to the law, which says: "For obedience and good conduct, a convict shall be entitled to a commutation of two days per month for the term of sentence."

CITIZENS IN THE ARMY.

Stringent orders have been issued regulating citizens allowed to remain with the Army of the Potomac. Correspondents are required to register their names before the 16th inst., and after that date, when absent from their post more than 24 hours, to report to the Provost-Marshal upon their return.

GUERRILLAS CAPTURED.

Nine of Mosby's guerrillas, said to be some of his right hand men, captured by the Second Massachusetts Cavalry, near Middleborough on Sunday, found quarters in the old Capitol to-day. A large number of Paymasters left for the Army of the Potomac to-day, with greenbacks sufficient to pay off men up to the first of April.

CAPTURED BY GUERRILLAS.

The guerrillas picked up thirteen men and a commissioned officer belonging to the Second Pennsylvania Reserves, between Manassas Junction and Bull Run, last night.

BUSHWHACKERS.

The order directing the summary punishment of bushwhackers when caught within the army lines, has recently been annulled.

THE DAMAGE TO THE RAILROAD REPAIRED.

Bridges washed away by freshet on the Orange and Alexandria road have been repaired, and trains are running regularly.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 12.

THE COLLECTION OF TAXES IN INSURRECTIONARY DISTRICTS.

From the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, in answer to the resolution of the Senate relative to the number of commissioners and amount of money received under the law to collect direct taxes in insurrectionary districts, it appears that there were five commissioners in the District of Florida, and four in each of the Districts of South Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee, at a salary of $3,000 each, and two clerks in Florida and one in each of the other districts, at a salary of $1,200 each. In South Carolina, 103,574 acres of land were sold for $27,399; in Virginia, 6,400 acres for $110,407; in Florida, 124 acres for $16,002; and in Tennessee, lands to the amount of $52,500. The expenses in the District of South Carolina were $15,815; Florida, $14,466; Virginia, $6,061; and Tennessee, $7,122.

THE TEN-FORTY LOAN.

The amount of subscriptions to the Ten-forty Loan, reported at the Treasury Department to-day, was $1,532,000.

MOVEMENTS OF GEN. GRANT.

Lieut.-Gen. Grant arrived in town from the Army of the Potomac at 12 o'clock last night.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 12.

THE COLLECTION OF DIRECT TAXES.

The Vice-President laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, in reply to a call for information as to the amount of money expended and the number of men employed to carry out the act for the collection of direct taxes in the insurrectionary districts. The Secretary submits a tabular statement giving all the information required.

A BUREAU OF FREEDMEN.

Mr. Sumner, of Massachusetts, (Union,) introduced a bill to establish a Bureau of Freedmen. It is placed in the Treasury rather than the War Department. It provides for a Commissioner at a salary of $4,000; a chief clerk and two clerks of each class. It guards very strictly the rights and interests of freedmen against loss or failure from cupidity, cruelty or accidental causes. It looks toward making the bureau self-supporting by applying to its uses the proceeds of leases.

A STATE GOVERNMENT FOR NEBRASKA.

Mr. Wade, of Ohio, (Union,) called up the House Bill to enable the people of Nebraska to form a constitution preparatory to admission into the Union.

Mr. Trumbull said he did not think that the population of this Territory was sufficient to justify its erection into a State. It contained only 27,000 inhabitants. He had not heard of any application on the part of the people.

Mr. Foster, of Connecticut, (Union,) thought if these people did not really want the Territory changed into a State it ought not be forced upon them. He could understand how a few men, who hoped to be Senators, Governors, &c., could desire a State Government. But he believed that if the question was put to-day to the people there, not one-half of them would vote for it. He preferred leaving the people in a territorial condition, until they had obtained the requisite population for a State. Though he would not withhold his vote on account of the insignificance of the population, he would desire that it should be established plainly that the people themselves desired the change.

Mr. Wade was astonished that the objection should be made, after the gentleman had voted for the Enabling Acts for other States. The test of population had not, heretofore, been applied to other Territories. Florida and Texas were admitted, the latter having two Representatives in Congress when she had not population enough for one. Our action was based upon the fact, that the Territory was rapidly filling up and assuming an important position by reason of its immense natural resources. He would be as much opposed to imposing a State Government upon the people against their consent as the Senator from Connecticut. This bill was only to enable the people to have a State Government, if they met in convention and indicated such desire. He did not think the people of Nebraska would thank the Senator for his advice.

Mr. Foster denied that he was attempting to give advice. He had only asked what had not been answered, whether the people had asked for a State Government.

Mr. Wade said it was the voice of the people, through their delegate in the other House.

Mr. Foster replied that the doors of Congress were open to the petition of this or any other people for admission, and it was not our place to dictate the forms of State Governments.

The subject was then laid over.

THE PAY OF THE ARMY.

Mr. Wilson, of Massachusetts, (Union,) introduced a bill relating to the pay and subsistence of the army, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

LAND AID TO IOWA RAILROADS.

On motion of Mr. Harlan, of Iowa, (Union,) the bill granting lands to the State of Iowa, to aid in the construction of a railroad from McGregor to a point of the Missouri River, to connect with certain lateral roads in Minnesota, was taken up, amended and passed.

AN ADJOURNMENT UNTIL THURSDAY.

On motion of Mr. Collamer, of Vermont, (Union,) the Senate resolved to adjourn, when it adjourned today, until Thursday, out of respect to the memory of John C. Rives.

PRIVATE PROPERTY FOR PUBLIC USE.

Mr. Davis, of Kentucky, (Dem.,) introduced a bill regulating the mode of ascertaining the value of lands and real estate that may be taken for the use of the United States. Referred to the Juciciary Committee.

CONCERNING COURTS-MARTIAL.

Mr. Davis introduced a bill to prevent the assembly of and trials by courts-martial of capital and other crimes not arising in the land or naval forces of the United States. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

INTER-OCEANIC TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION.

Mr. Grimes, of Iowa, (Union,) presented the memorial of Henry O'Reilly for increasing and cheapening telegraphic correspondence among the American people and the nations of the Old World. Referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. Doolittle presented the memorial of Perry McD. Collins, praying for the aid of Congress in establishing an overland telegraph via Behrings Straits. Referred to the same committee.

THE NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the Naval Appropriation Bill in Committee of the Whole.

The amendment appropriating money for the purchase of land to extend the wharf at the Charlestown Navy-yard, was adopted.

An amendment offered by Mr. Hale, from the Naval Committee, was adopted. It provides that no part of the appropriation for the Naval Academy shall be paid to midshipmen unless in strict conformity with the law.

An amendment offered by Mr. Anthony was adopted, raising the Professors of Ethics, Spanish and Drawing in the Naval Academy to a level with other Professors.

Mr. Grimes offered an amendment, returning the Naval Academy to Annapolis, Md., on or before the academic year, commencing in September, 1865.

Mr. Grimes proceeded in an elaborate speech to set forth the advantages of Annapolis over Newport. He contended that, in addition to the want of accommodation at the latter place, the temptations presented to the cadets were so great as to be prejudicial to good order and discipline, and no one could be a good officer in our navy who had not learned himself how to be commanded.

Mr. Anthony, of Rhode Island, (Union,) defended the advantages of Newport as a site for the Academy.

After considerable debate, pro and con., the amendment was concurred in—ayes, 20; nays, 17, as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Collamer, Conness, Cowan, Davis, Doolittle, Fessenden, Foot, Foster, Grimes, Hale, Harlan, Harris, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, Nesmith, Powell, Riddle, Sherman, Willey.

Nays—Messrs. Anthony, Buckalew, Chandler, Dickson, Howard, Lane of Kansas, Morgan, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sprague, Sumner, Ten Eyck, Trumbull, Wade, Wilkinson, Wilson, Wright.

Mr. Powell, of Kentucky, (Dem.) offered an amendment as an additional section, repealing the bounties given to vessels engaged in the cod and other bank fisheries. Mr. Powell said he would not attach this important measure to the bill were it not for the fact that all his efforts to a direct vote upon it, as an independent proposition, had failed. This was due to some hocus pocus, which he did not understand. Having tried at the last session to get his measure reported by the Commerce Committee, he tried the Finance Committee, and met with no better success, and he concluded to offer it now.

Mr. Powell contended that his ill success arose from the fact that a New-England interest was at stake, and as New-England out of twelve Senators had fourteen chairmen of committees, it was easy to perceive how the other portions of the country were being taxed for her benefit. The great State of New-York had a chairman of a committee—that of Private Land Claims, from which he had never read a report; and Pennsylvania had a chairman of the Committee on Patents and the Patent Office. [Laughter.] New-England had the chairmanship of the Army, Finance, Foreign Affairs, &c. How could the great West get matters of importance to them presented before this body when such partiality was shown in the distribution of chairmanships? When he approached the Chairman of the Committee on Commerce to get his bill, of which the present amendment was the substance, reported upon, he was told to see Mr. Morrill, of Maine.

Mr. Conness, of California, (Union,) inquired if before the rebellion the Senator had been in the habit of complaining to the lords of the South of the distribution of the chairmanships, and how they took it,

Mr. Powell replied he had never served as chairman of a committee since he had been here.

Mr. Conness said that was not an answer. Was the Senator then, as now, in the habit of complaining?

Mr. Powell said the only reason he complained now was on account of the gross partiality shown by the Chairman of the Committee on Commerce, (Mr. Chandler,) who, though not representing New-England, was New-England born. The gross amount of the bounties now paid was $600,000, to pay which the resources and labor of other sections of the country were taxed. It was said that we needed these bounties to maintain our mercantile marine. He wanted no such mariners for seamen. He hoped his friends from the great West would vote for this amendment, as it was just about as just to tax the pigs of Kansas, or the power of the mills of Illinois, as to pay these bounties.

Mr. Fessenden, of Maine, (Union,) explained that there was no "hocus-pocus" in the treatment of the Senator's proposition in the Finance Committee, and the Senator found it again in the Commerce Committee solely because the Finance Committee thought it belonged there, and it was so referred in open Senate. He would not attempt to reply to what the Senator had heretofore said in derogation of the bravery of New-England citizens. New-England was as far above Kentucky in this respect as Heaven was above the earth, and her bright record could not be soiled by anything the Senator might say. The Senator might make something of this in Kentucky, but he could not do it here. He (Fessenden) would not say a word against Kentucky, for he made many allowances for the position in which she had been placed, and lamented her attachment to the fatal delusion of the justice of human bondage.

Mr. Fessenden then proceeded to show that previous to the present troubles the Chairmanship of all but four of the Committees were in the hands of Southern Democratic leaders. He also denied that New-England was represented in the Commerce Committee at the expense of any other section.

Mr. Sherman, of Ohio, (Union,) remarked that while he was in favor of this amendment, he should probably vote against it. He gave notice that when the Internal Revenue Bill came up, he should introduce a carefully worded amendment, accomplishing what was desired.

Mr. Chandler, of Maine, (Union,) would not defend the Committee of Commerce from the onslaught of the Senator from Kentucky. He would not condescend to do so. He was proud, as the Chairman of that committee, to have the abuse. He had voted heretofore for his expulsion as a friend of traitors.

Mr. Powell wished to understand whether the Senator called him a friend to traitors now.

Mr. Chandler rose to reply amidst cries of order.

Mr. Foster, of Connecticut, (Union) submitted that personalities were out of order. He was sustained by the Chair.

Mr. Powell said if the Senator said he was now the friend of traitors, his statement was false and untrue. [Cries of "Order."] The Senator was not one for whom he had a personal respect.

Mr. Chandler rose to reply.

Mr. Powell refused to yield, as what he said was of such a character that a man of honor and a gentleman could not reply to in this chamber. [Sensation.] He put it to the Senator from Maine, if the people of his section had not been assaulted, and the Senator from Massachusetts had denounced as barbarous those who agreed with the minority. In reply to Mr. Fessenden, Mr. Powell said there was not strength enough in his feeble arm to reach him or his State. In conclusion he reiterated that he had a right to speak of the Committee of Commerce in the manner he had.

Mr. Chandler said if there was a man on God's earth he had ceased to have respect for, it was the gentleman from Kentucky, (Mr. Powell,) since the rebellion had broken out. His own and the Senator's feelings were, therefore, mutual.

Mr. Powell said, nothing more could be expected from—

Here Mr. Saulsbury made an appeal to the Senators that as sons of common sires, and as brothers, they should, in the present unhappy state of affairs in which the country found itself, act as become the dignity of American Senators.

Mr. Davis, of Kentucky, (Dem.,) said in his votes he had heretofore opposed the present amendment; but seeing New-England come up in solid column for the purpose of prostrating the interests of other sections, he should change his course, and vote for the amendment as a measure of retaliation.

The amendment of Mr. Powell was rejected by a vote of 19 yeas against 19 nays, as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Buckalew, Cowan, Davis, Harding, Harlan, Harris, Hindman, Hendricks, Lane of Indiana, Lane of Kansas, McDougall, Nesmith, Pomeroy, Powell, Saulsbury, Trumbull, Wilkinson, Willey, Wright.

Nays—Messrs. Anthony, Chandler, Conness, Doolittle, Fessenden, Foot, Foster, Grimes, Hale, Howe, Johnson, Morgan, Ramsay, Sherman, Sprague, Sumner, Ten Eyck, Wade, Wilson.

The Senate then adjourned until Thursday.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 12.

The galleries were densely crowded, as on Saturday and yesterday.

DEPRECIATION OF CURRENCY.

Mr. Stevens, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) from the Ways and Means Committee, reported a bill to prevent a depreciation of the currency. It provides that every person, bank, association, or corporation issuing notes to circulate as money, shall pay a duty of one fourth of one per centum per month on the amount issued. Monthly returns are to be made. After one year it shall be unlawful to issue such notes, unless authorized by act of Congress.

The consideration of the subject was postponed.

THE EXPULSION OF MR. LONG.

The House then resumed the consideration of the resolution of Speaker Colfax, for the expulsion of Mr. Long of Ohio.

Mr. Eldridge of Wisconsin, (Dem.,) said this resolution was wrongfully brought here. The only object could be to stir up strife and ill-feeling, at a time when we ought not only to have good fellowship and kind feeling, but union of sentiment. Referring to the constitutional provision, he denied the right and power of the House to expel the gentleman from Ohio under this resolution. They could not expel him for opinion's sake. The Constitution submitted no such question—a man could not be expelled for opinion, but for acts. He disagreed with the gentleman from Ohio, and also, from the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. Harris.) He had not come to the conclusion that secession is a fixed and unalterable fact, and that the alternatives maintained by the gentleman from Ohio have not yet been presented to the country—it is possible, however, they may be. He referred to the New-York Times, which says that Speaker Colfax's zeal has outrun his discretion, and that his resolution is neither right nor expedient, and the Evening Post says Mr. Long's speech was a perfectly legitimate expression. If the war was conducted on a proper policy, the seceded States may be brought back; but carry it on for subjugation, and you never can accomplish your purposes. You accuse the Democrats of sympathizing with the rebels, but you do not believe it. The charge is for wicked and party purposes. He said the Republican was the revolutionary party in opinions and practice, for, in overthrowing the Constitution, they overthrow the Union.

Mr. Spaulding, of Ohio, (Union,) said that some men were willing to become famous by consenting to be infamous. He (Spaulding) had carefully read and considered the obnoxious speech of the member from Ohio, (Long,) and he found no palliative in or about it. His colleague (Long) commenced his wild harangue by announcing his intention to express the convictions of his judgment. Nothing was said without premeditation or under excitement by the gentleman, (Long,) and yet at the commencement of his singular harangue he made a vile fling at our Chief Magistrate, by asserting, in effect, that in the assassination of the President on his way to Washington, there would have been a warmer greeting than would have been agreeable. Mr. Spaulding quoted from the speech of Mr. Long, which he characterized as "criminal licentiousness," and if it was not restrained it would do more to sap the foundation of our Republic than the armed cohorts of the rebellion. His colleage had come to the conclusion that the Union is lost, never to be restored, and according to his own language, he regarded all pains to restore the Union as worse than folly, and that there was no sentiment either North or South on which to build a Union; and further, that every clause and letter of the Constitution has been violated. His (Long's) language was uttered within seventy miles of where the two armies are now located, and who are only waiting for a few sunny hours to solve the great mooted question whether we are capable of self-government. In conclusion, Mr. Spaulding denied the truth of a paper read by Fernando Wood yesterday, that he (Spaulding) had, at the Fremont Convention, made a speech for the dissolution of the Union. He made no such speech there, and never entertained such an opinion.

Mr. Smith, of Kentucky, (Union,) did not hear the speech of the gentleman from Ohio (Long;) but, after a careful examination of it, he (Smith) had come to the conclusion that there was scarcely a sentiment or word in it that he (Smith) could indorse. Nor did he believe such sentiments should be uttered in this House, or were indorsed by any considerable portion of the people of the United States. He (Smith) then arraigned the Democratic party, a portion of which are now in rebellion, with being the origin and instrumental in bringing on the rebellion; but for them, he (Smith) said, we would not be in the attitude we are to-day. In the course of his remarks he repeated what Douglas said, that "there could be but two parties—patriots and traitors," [applause,] and then proceeded to quote from Davis, Yancey, Brooks, Law and others, to show that they were prepared to sever the Union, making the election of Fremont the pretext. If the advice of Brooks was followed out, namely, "Place none but Slavery men as sentinels," the gentleman from Ohio (Cox) would have been thus selected.

Mr. Cox, of Ohio, (Dem.,) replied that he never held the doctrine that the Democratic party was Anti-Slavery. He had said that party was neither Slavery nor Anti-Slavery, but in favor of non-intervention, leaving to the people of the States and territories the right to regulate their own domestic matters.

Mr. Smith, in reply to Mr. Cox, stated that he (Smith,) voted for Douglas, and he (Smith,) believed that the spirit of Douglas indorsed every word and sentiment that he (Smith,) now uttered, and that the same spirit was saying to the gentleman from Ohio, (Cox,) "You have departed from the truth." [Laughter.]

Mr. Cox wanted to know what peculiar right the gentleman from Kentucky (Smith,) had to speak for the deceased statesman, Stephen A. Douglas. He (Cox) had made the first speech against secession, backing up Mr. Douglas in his views, and he had never departed from the stand he had taken. He stood where Douglas stood.

Mr. Smith replied that he understood from the good book that all true and honest spirits are liberal spirits, and thus communicate; but there was an impassable gulf between the good and the bad, and therefore it was not surprising the gentleman from Ohio, (Cox,) had not heard from Douglas. [Laughter.] Mr. Smith then adverted to the acts of Buchanan, Floyd and others, in their connection with the late Administration, declaring that as Slavery was the cause of the war it ought to be removed, so that we might have an independent nation of freedmen. [Applause.]

Mr. Voorhees, of Indiana, (Dem.,) here rose to a point of order, owing to the disorderly demonstrations in the galleries not being suppressed. He made this point in the presence of the gentleman occupying the Chair, Mr. Rollins, of New-Hampshire.

Mr. Grinnell, of Iowa, (Union,) called Mr. Voorhees to order.

Mr. Smith hoped that the gentlemen in the galleries would keep their feet still and their hands in their pockets. He (Smith) said that the gentleman from Ohio (Long) had left his own desk and occupied his (Smith's,) at which he delivered his speech. Was there ever such a desecration of a loyal desk? Mr. Smith earnestly contended that we should whip down the rebellion. If we cannot do that let us subjugate the South, and populate it with a better people. If gentlemen have sympathy with the Southern rebellion, let them honestly define their position.

Mr. Pendleton, of Ohio, (Dem.,) would not discuss the soundness or unsoundness of the views of his colleague, (Long,) nor would he indulge in any partisan discussion or allusions. The design was that members of Congress should represent the views of their constituents, and by argument, persuasion, and a comparison of opinion, arrive at an intelligent conclusion as to such measures of legislation as would contribute best to the general welfare and the perpetuity of the Government. What questions are brought before us? Confiscation, taxation, organization of State Governments, and amendments to the Constitution. Debate here should be to make an impression on the minds of members. The speech of

GARIBALDI'S VISIT.

PREPARATIONS FOR HIS RECEPTION.

From the Observer.

Gen. Garibaldi is expected to arrive in Southampton Water on Saturday next, April 2, in the Ripon steamer. He will not land at Southampton, but will, with his suite, be taken on board a small steamer, expressly chartered by Mr. Seely, and conveyed to Cowes, en route for Brook House, the island residence of the above gentleman. He will stay there in private until the morning of Saturday, April 16, when he will leave for London per Southwestern Railway, arriving either at the Nine Elms, or Waterloo Station, of that line, but most probably the former, at 2½ o'clock in the afternoon, and will be there received by the members of the joint London committees and deputations from the provincial towns, and suitable addresses presented to him. From thence he will be escorted in public procession to Albert House, Knightsbridge, the town residence of Mr. Seely. The entertainments proposed to be given respectively by the two committees will not take place until some day in the following week. His sojourn at Brooke House, it is intended, shall be strictly private; but while at Albert House he will be prepared to receive those deputations who may desire to wait upon him. The time of arrival in London, on the afternoon of a Saturday, is by the express wish of Garibaldi himself, in order that, availing themselves of the prevailing Saturday half-holiday, as many of the working men as possible may be in attendance to receive him. It was desired by the Workingmen's Committee, as Garibaldi gained his victories chiefly by volunteers, that one of those corps in London should form a guard of honor to him on his arrival, and the Third London of Workingmen's Brigade, was some time back applied to for that purpose, as being the most appropriate corps on whom that honor could be conferred. The sanction of Major Richards, the commandant of corps, was given in reply to that application, but it appears that since then the corps has come under the control of the War Office. It cannot act as requested without applying for and receiving the sanction of the War Office authorities. Steps, however, are being taken to obtain that sanction, and there is every reason to believe the right corps will yet be in the right place. The sub-committee, formed from the general committee, are working night and day to make the demonstration an effective and peaceable one. It is desired that it shall not be one of party, but truly national. A deputation from the Workmen's Committee will wait upon Sir Richard Mayne to arrange with him as to the order of proceedings, and they propose that some hundreds of trustworthy men connected with the various working class societies shall be sworn in as special constables for the day. Subscription lists and cards for the testimonial are being extensively distributed, and are eagerly taken; and the Workmen's Committee have prepared a card, printed on the Italian tricolor, to be presented to each subscriber to the demonstration and testimonial funds, to be kept by them as a memento of the visit. A large number of the trades have agreed to turn out on the occasion with their flags and devices, and meetings of the Foresters and Odd-fellows are to be held during the ensuing week, when it is expected these numerous and influential bodies will also decide upon forming part of the processions in full regalia. Several of the carriage population of the metropolis have offered to place carriages and horses at the disposal of the committees, and the free loan of flags and banners has also been extensively proffered. Judging from present arrangements, the contemplated procession in honor of Italy just now will be one of the grandest and most imposing spectacles witnessed in the metropolis for many years.

The following motion will be moved in the Court of Common Council by Mr. John Richard: "That the visit of Guiseppe Garibaldi to England affords an appropriate opportunity for the recognition by the Corporation of London of his long devotion to the cause of political liberty, his numerous acts of self-sacrifice in America and Europe in the service of freedom, and especially of his labors in preparing the way for the establishment of Italian liberty on the basis of law and order, and constitutional rights, it is resolved to present him with the freedom of the city in a casket of the value of 100 guineas."

GARIBALDI AT MALTA.

The Malta correspondent of the Daily News, writing on the 24th instant, says:

Gen. Garibaldi arrived here with his suite on the 22d, by the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer Valetta, from Marseilles. This vessel lay close off his residence at Caprera, and in a very short time the General and his suite were on board. He is visiting England for change of air, and proceeds by the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steamer Ripon, to Southampton, and takes up his abode with Mr. Charles Seely, M. P., after which he visits Col. Chambers, who is now traveling with him. The General landed very early in the morning, and took up his quarters at the Imperial Hotel. There was a faint attempt by some of the Maltese to get up a bad feeling against him by hissing and calling him a freemason, but this was completely overwhelmed by a burst of cheers, in which the Maltese vied with the English; and the General has since expressed himself much gratified by the hearty welcome he received. The street and front of the hotel were so crowded that there was no passing, and the doors of the hotel had to be closed. The police made admirable arrangements. Only a few at a time were admitted, but all were enabled to see him, for he held one long levée from 9 A. M. to 7 P. M., when he was so fagged that Col. Chambers insisted on his retiring. He sat on a sofa, his leg propped up on a chair, ladies sitting and chatting close to him as he received and shook hands with a constant succession of visitors of all classes, among whom were many ladies. Some of the sergeants of the English regiments—tall, fine-looking fellows—shook hands with the hero, and from their happy countenances appeared extremely gratified at the honor.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.

From the Manchester Examiner.

The cable which is to be now tried is one recommended by a committee consisting of Messrs.

worth, Fairbairn, Wheatstone, Thompson, and Capt. Galton. The committee have also recommended that "during the manufacture by the Gutta Percha Company and by Messrs. Glass, Elliott & Co. respectively, the conductivity of the copper strand should be determined by the specification of a high standard, to be found by the electrical advisers of the company, but not at less than 85 per cent.; that the electrical perfection of the core be determined by the unit system of measurement, and that the standard of the cable should certainly not be below that of the best cable hitherto made; that the core of the cable be tested under hydraulic pressure, and at the highest pressure attainable, in Reid's tanks, now at the Gutta Percha Company's works; that after submission to this pressure the core be carefully examined, also that before it be transferred to Messrs. Glass, Elliott & Co., it be required to pass the full electrical test under water; that all the tests of the core be made in water of a temperature of 70° Fahr., and after twenty-four hours' submersion therein; that the company, as well as the manufacturers, employ proper persons at the Gutta Percha Company's works to check the electrical tests, and it is desirable that they should arrive at their results by a different process to that employed by the Gutta Percha Company; that the completed cable be continuously tested under water at such temperature as the electrical advisers of the company decide on from time to time, and that the company check the tests; that the joints be tested separately, and that no joint be passed which showed a leakage twice as great as that of a corresponding length of the core; that careful and frequent mechanical tests be made upon the iron wire and hemp, and that the company as well as the contractors keep properly paid and respectable persons on the wire drawers' premises, as well as at Messrs. Glass, Elliot & Co.'s Works, to check the strength and elongation of these materials." The very efficient and stringent precautionary measures, carried out in their integrity, can scarcely fail to result in the construction of a cable of the most perfect description in every respect. The advantage of such tests, carefully conducted and recorded, will also prove at all times most valuable in the electrical management of the cable when submerged and in actual operation.

THE STEAM RAMS.

From the Manchester Examiner, March 28.

BLOCKADE-RUNNING AND THE CONFEDERATE LOAN.

The Times city article says the Denbigh, from Mobile, reported to have been captured by the Federal blockading squadron, is announced to have arrived safely, with a cargo of cotton, at Havana. This cotton was shipped in payment of a proportionate amount of Confederate bonds, which will be canceled.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Queen of England has officially announced her intention to hold a court at Buckingham Palace April 6, at which Her Majesty will receive the principal members of the Diplomatic Corps; and a second court on the 13th of April, to which a limited number of distinguished persons will be invited to attend, in order to afford them an opportunity of paying their respects to Her Majesty.

Drawing-room receptions will also be held by the Princess of Wales and levées by the Prince of Wales, in behalf of the Queen, in May and June.

State concerts and two State balls will also be given during the season, by command of the Queen, at Buckingham Palace.

Political affairs in England during the Parliamentary recess were quite unimportant.

The annual Easter Monday review of the Metropolitan Volunteers came off with great éclat, near Guildford. About 18,000 men were under arms.

At the usual Easter banquet given by the Lord Mayor of London, the Duke of Cambridge spoke in favor of maintaining the army and navy in a state of the utmost efficiency. He asserted England would do all she could in honor to keep out of war, but would never submit to humiliation and contempt.

GENERAL NEWS.

THE MEXICAN QUESTION.

THE LOAN.

Correspondence of the London News.

Paris, Friday, March 25, 1864.

Various rumors are current about the Mexican loan, but, from what I can gather, the facts are as follows: The Emperor came to the conclusion that his young friend the Archduke was in a fair way to be victimized by financial intriguers eager to take advantage of the necessities of his nascent empire. He, therefore, put a rather sudden stop to certain negotiations that were going on, and resolved that the loan should be issued by houses in France and England of high standing, on commission, due regard being shown to the interests of the old bondholders. The loan is reported to be for £5,000,000 sterling in a six per cent. stock at 63, and out of the proceeds a reserve which, I am assured, will be thought extremely liberal, is to be made for existing creditors. The competition for the loan has been extremely active, Messrs. Rothschild taking the lead; but it has been thought, both by the French Government and the Mexican Minister, that the soundest course was to confide the matter to commission houses on the old principle, rather than to place it in the hands of parties who would seek to derive an extra profit from the operation for their own account. In this spirit a contract was entered into with Mr. George E. Seymour, of London, which contract, I am enabled to state, has been this day ratified by Messrs. Glyn, Mills & Co. Arrangements will be made for an Anglo-French issue immediately after the acceptance of the crown by the Archduke, which ceremony, as you are aware, will take place at Miramar on Easter Sunday. The Archduke is extremely anxious to have the credit of inaugurating his reign by an act of financial justice. In the case of the bondholders, their mortgage upon the customs revenues will not be invalidated. The Archduke means to provide for their dividends pending the consolidation of the empire, so far as the present resources of the country will permit. I understand that the sum which the French Government takes for its war expenses will not in any way interfere with the loan, and that the amount—less than reported—is considerably under three millions sterling. A guarantee the French Government will not give, because the Corps Legislatif would not sanction it; but the 40,000 French bayonets in Mexico are in themselves no mean guarantee as long as they remain, and there seems little prospect of their coming away in a hurry. Everything short of a guarantee will be done to favor the loan here. The Indépendance Belge says that the Emperor and Empress will head the French subscription, and that, as a consequence, courtiers and functionaries innumerable will follow suit. This loan will be the first Mexican stock officially quoted on the French Bourse. It appears that Mr. Seymour was consulted in the matter, owing to the favor of the Emperor of Austria, who, in acknowledgment of financial operations effected by him in Vienna last year, has recently sent him the order of the Iron Crown.

MAXMILLIAN.

The Daily News says that on the ground of difficulties which have arisen as to the presumptive succession to the Austrian throne, the Archduke Maximilian has deferred the reception of the Mexican notables who were deputed to request his acceptance of the Mexican Crown. Sunday, the 27th, had been the day fixed for the formal acceptance by the Archduke.

THE DANO-GERMAN WAR.

A Vienna telegram, of the 28th, to the London Times, says the Conferences will begin in London on the 12th April.

Serious dissensions are reported between Prince Frederick Charles and Marshal Von Wrangel, the Prussian Commander-in-Chief; and Prince Hohenzollern Sigmaringen had left Berlin for the seat of war to endeavor to effect a reconciliation.

A circular by the Danish Government, dated March 15, energetically attacks the conduct of the allies in Schleswig.

There was a short but sharp engagement at Gravenstein on the 28th, and the Danes were driven behind their intrenchments.

The London Morning Advertiser states, on alleged implicit authority, that Austria has given a pledge to England that she will not send ships of-war to the Baltic.

The London Morning Post continues to harp upon the alleged new holy alliance, and says:

"We shall be glad to discover that no holy alliance exists to crush the liberties of Europe, just as we should learn with satisfaction that the hostility of Germany toward Denmark was prompted by sympathy with co-patriots, and not by abhorence of liberal institutions. On the one point as on the other, however, we lack the information to justify us in drawing the wished-for inferences."

The English invitation to the German Diet to take part in the proposed Conference was laid before the Diet on the 26th of March, and referred to a Committee to be reported on.

THE LATEST.

Liverpool, Tuesday, March 29.

It is stated that the Conference on the Danish question will meet at London on the 12th of April.

Liverpool, Wednesday, March 30.

The Prussians attempted to carry Duppel by storm, but were repulsed, after a five hours' engagement along their whole line.

PROGRESS OF THE SIEGE.

From the London Star, March 28.

The fire of the Prussian batteries at Duppel is described as terrible, and is scarcely interrupted for more than a quarter of an hour, to afterward begin again with fresh fury. The projectiles have killed some Danish officers and soldiers, but have done little injury to the intrenchments. The Danes have reestablished their batteries along the Vemmingbund, where, in spite of the fire of the Prussians, they maintain themselves with a firmness which reflects the highest honor on their courage. The shots from the Prussian batteries frequently reach as far as the Island of Alsen; they have partly destroyed the small town of Sonderburg, which is, however, totally inoffensive. A Danish flag of truce was sent to the Prussian headquarters to ask whether the enemy intended to destroy the town, and, if that were the case, to demand time to remove the wounded and the women and children. The Prussians replied that they were not firing on the town, but that they could not guarantee that the projectiles would not fall on it. The inhabitants have therefore taken refuge at Odensee, where they have met with the kindest reception.

The siege of Fredericia is even less advanced than that of Duppel. The bombardment lasted two days without interruption. The Prussians attacked the left of the entrenchments, and the Austrians cannonaded the right, Marshal Wrangel himself directing the bombardment. The artillery of both the invading nations have shown much skill and precision. They fired about 1,000 shots a day. The place scarcely returned the fire. At last the firing ceased, and a flag of truce was sent to summon the commandant to surrender, which he refused in very decided terms. The allies then abandoned their positions, and retired out of gunshot of the place. The country is still covered with snow, and the roads are so bad that there is great difficulty in supplying the parks of artillery. It is that circumstance which most probably has induced the Austro-Prussians provisionally to interrupt the siege of Fredericia. The resistance of Duppel being prolonged, Marshal Wrangel cannot expose himself to the risk of being in want of ammunition.

A PROCLAMATION BY MARSHAL WRANGEL.

On the occupation of Jutland by the allied Prusso-Austrian Army I call upon the inhabitants of all classes, and in particular the State officials, to show unconditional obedience to the ordinances and requisitions of the allied military authorities, and thereby alleviate as far as possible the burdens which the country has to bear in consequence of the war.

Whenever the dispositions of the military authorities do not find unconditional obedience, they will be under the necessity of compelling obedience by proceeding against the persons or places concerned, according to the laws of war in connection with money fines and contributions. The distribution of the provisions to be delivered to the allied army is to be performed by Danish officials to the best of their judgment. Those among the latter who do not accommodate themseves to the ordinances on these matters will be deposed and punished.

Every unlawful act against he security of the army, or of individual persons, every connection or communication with the enemy, will be met with the full severity of the laws of war.

I shall endeavor not unnecessarily to aggravate the burdens into which the country has been plunged by its government. But for the injuries which may be perpetrated on German property by the Danish forces by sea or land I shall have to make reprisals in accordance with the ordinances of the high allied Governments, and procure indemnity by every appropriate means from state and private property in Jutland."

The Field-Marshal VON WRANGEL.

The Pope was so far restored to health that he officiated in the religious ceremonies of Easter Sunday. On account of rain, however, he bestowed the public benediction inside of St. Peters, instead of, as is usual, from an exterior balcony.

It is asserted that demonstrations had occurred throughout Venetia, in celebration of the anniversary of the revolution of 1848. Several arrests were made in Venice.

It is denied that an Italian camp of observation is to be formed at Bologna.

TURKEY.

Mustapha Pasha had retired from the Ministry of Finance on account of ill health, but remained in the Cabinet without portfolio. Kiami Pasha had succeeded to his office, but the Grand Vizier retains the superintendence of the Finance.

The Times Vienna correspondent writes from St. Petersburgh:

"We learn that a great coolness has arisen between the Russian and French Governments, because the former has acquired the belief that the later is plotting mischief in European Turkey, and more particularly in Romania. The Russian troops are now constructing barricades at the principal stations on the railroad between Wilna and the Prussian frontier, near Konigsberg. The strength of the King of Wurtemburg is declining so rapidly that you may expect soon to hear of his demise."

THE SIEGE OF DYBOOL.

Copenhagen, Monday, March 28.

At 3 o'clock this morning the enemy attempted to surprise our position at Dybool. He penetrated between two of our trenches, but was repulsed to his former position. The engagement lasted five hours. The conflict extended along the whole line. Our iron-clad took an effective part in the contest. It is announced from the north of Schleswig that the Prussians in Jutland are moving southward.

Sonderborg, Monday, March 28, 10 A. M.

This morning at 3 o'clock an attack was made on bastion 6, and on the whole Dybool lines. The Prussians were thrice repulsed. At last the Prussian soldiers refused to obey the command of their officers to advance. The Rolfkrake fired on the Prussians' right from Weninangbrard. The engagement lasted seven hours. The cannonade continues. One hundred Danes are killed and two wounded. Twenty-two Prussian prisoners have been taken. Only four Danish regiments were engaged.

LITERARY GOSSIP.

—Mr. John Scott Russell, the originator of the "wave line" theory of ship building, to whom are due most of the scientific formula that have placed on a sure basis the art of naval construction, has in preparation a large and expensive work that is expected to be ready in the course of the present year, entitled, The Modern System of Naval Architecture for Commerce and War. It will comprise three divisions: Part I.—Naval Design; Part II.—Practical Shipbuilding; Part III.—Steam Navigation. No more copies will be issued than are subscribed for, and the steel and copper plates will be destroyed, so as to insure at once the absorption of the entire impression, which cannot be reproduced, and the work is thus effectually secured from ever falling in price.

—Messrs. Moore, Wilstack & Co., of Cincinnati, will shortly issue The Blennerhassett Papers, a complete collection of the letters, documents, &c., relating to the attempted Wilkinson and Burr Revolution, which forms so curious an episode in the early history of the Western States, and has derived additional significance from more recent events in the same region. The author, Wm. H. Safford, has been for many years engaged in the investigation of the affair; and in his work will be published, for the first time, the private journal of Harman Blennerhassett, and copious original correspondence of Col. Burr, Alston, Emmett, Dayton, Theodosia Burr Alston, Mrs. Blennerhassett, &c., that throw a strong light over the hitherto obscure aims and purposes of the leaders of the movement. The book will form a handsome octavo of 700 pages, with fine steel portraits.

—The New-York Spring Trade Sale, that has been in progress for the last week, under the presiding charge of Mr. James E. Cooley and Mr. George Leavitt, has given satisfaction to both buyers and sellers, and developes a healthy state of the book and publishing trade. Though the qualities sold were, as always happens in the Spring, below the average of the Autumn sales, the prices realized were good, even taking into consideration the greatly advanced cost of manufacture in every branch of trade connected with the "getting up" of a book. The bidding, too, was prompt and decisive. If a publisher was willing to sell a quantity of any really popular book a fraction below the regular price, advantage was immediately taken of it, and a large number was promptly claimed by eager purchasers. If desirable books were held "stiffly" at the usual rates, only smaller quantities, wanted for immediate sale, were disposed of. Nothing occurred on this occasion to mar the harmony of the trade, who, as usual, attended in great force from various sections of the country.

Decision in the Fourth National Bank Case—Opinion.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Peckham.

Robert L. Taylor et al. vs. Benjamin H. Hutton et al.—Peckham, J.—This is substantially an application for the continuance of an injunction to prevent the alleged illegal removal of the President of the Fourth National Bank, threatened by two-thirds of the directors, defendants herein. It is charged in the complaint that the defendants entered into a combination shortly after the election of the President, to "drive him from his office, with the view of putting a more pliable person in his place, and using the funds of the bank to aid in stock operations, instead of employing them in legitimate commercial and banking operations." The suit is commenced by two of the directors and two stockholders of the bank, the President not being a party.

The purpose of the removal is very fully and specifically denied, though the intent to remove is admitted, and, as the defendants insist, for the true interests of the bank.

It appears from the papers on this motion that soon after the election of the President, on the 19th of January last, until the commencement of this suit, unpleasant difficulties and differences have existed between the President and a majority of the Directors, as to the proper officers of the bank, and as to some other matters not material to specify. The Directors finally determined to remove him, and it is now insisted that they have no such power. No allusion was made to the complaint on which the temporary injunction was obtained to the articles of association of this bank, signed by the stockholders.

The chief ground urged against the authority of the board to remove the President, is that the bank has never legally adopted any by-laws, and that there are none now existing.

That they should be adopted by the stockholders, and not by the Directors, and that they should also be approved by the Comptroller of the currency. They have been adopted by the Directors only.

It is conceded that they have never been adopted by the stockholders, nor in form by the Comptroller of the currency.

But suppose there are no by-laws yet adopted, I do not think it follows that the Directors may not remove the President.

The articles of association, signed by all the original stockholders, (in some degree in the nature of a charter,) gives express authority to remove.

Its sixth article provides that "the Board of Directors, (a majority of whom shall be a quorum to do business,) shall elect one of their number to be President, who shall hold his office, (unless he should become disqualified, or be sooner removed by a two-third vote of all the members of the board,) for the term for which he was elected a Director."

These articles of Association, so adopted and signed, are to be, and in this case from the facts presented, have been transmitted to the Comptroller of the Currency who is by law required "to record and carefully preserve the same in his office." (Sec. 6 of the act.) He must then in substance have approved of them, or he would not have issued the circulating notes to this bank, which he in fact issued under the 16th section of the act.

The act of Congress also in my judgment authorizes this removal. In speaking of the powers of the directors, as I interpret the act, it says, they "shall have power to carry on the business of banking by obtaining and issuing circulating notes in accordance with the provisions of this act, by discounting bills, notes and other evidences of debt," &c., &c., "to choose one of their own number as president of such association, and to appoint a cashier and such other officers and agents as their business may require; and to remove such president, cashier, officers and agents at pleasure, and appoint others in their places." (Sec. 11 of the act.) I think this construction of the act as having reference to the directors to do these things, and not to the stockholders, is quite plain.

It does not seem to be at all necessary that any by-laws should be adopted before a President be chosen or removed and another appointed in his place.

This power is expressly given to the board, irrespective of any by-laws, both by the articles of association and by the act of Congress. Besides, it is a power that might be required to be exercised, or that it might be expedient to exercise prior to the adoption of any by-laws.

It is also asserted that one of the defendants, (Mr. White Wright,) is not legally a Directors, and hence he had no right to unite in the removal.

It appears that one of the original Directors resigned, and that Mr. White Wright was appointed to fill the vacancy by the other members of the board, without any nomination at a prior meeting of the board, as required by the by-laws as plaintiffs allege were adopted by the board. Here plaintiffs must invoke the aid of by-laws. The act of Congress prescibes that "any vacancy in the board shall be filled by appointment by the remaining Directors."—Sec. 43.

Assuming the plaintiffs to be correct in their position that there are no by-laws, there is certainly no objection to the appointment under the statute. Besides, I may add that the statute seems to require the aid of no by-laws and that none could be made to annul it. If the by-laws exist and are valid, I do not think they apply to the appointment of a Director. Though it might have been a sound provision had it been made. Irrespective of the by-laws and of the articles of association, the board have power under the act to remove the President by a mere majority vote; assuming that they modify and qualify the act, a two-third vote is required.

It is urged that the court should stay the action of the board until the 14th inst., when a meeting of the stockholders will be held, and the whole difficulty settled.

On mere questions of expediency of this character, courts have no power to interfere with the action of a bank, or its officers.

The preliminary injunction is therefore dissolved, and the motion for its continuance is denied with costs.

D. D. Field, for the motion; L. B. Woodruff and Joseph Choate, opposed.

Tuesday, April 12—P. M.

The sales of Gold at the early session of the Stock Exchange this morning were made at 173¾@174@174¼ ₩ cent., and at the Afternoon Board, at 175 ₩ cent. The active demand for Exchange for the Boston mail was renewed this morning, and the rates advanced to 190@191 ₩ cent. The movement was altogether 1@1½ ₩ cent. above the top figures of the excitement early in March of last year. It created, in turn, a very active demand for United States Stocks for transmission to Europe, and the 5-20s advanced to 114 ₩ cent. Some considerable parcels of the new 10-40s at par, were taken for the same direction, and the subscriptions to this Loan reported since yesterday, in this market, amount to over a million of dollars, to wit.:

At Treasury Office	$325,750
First National Bank	531,800
Sixth National Bank	241,000
Together	$1,098,550

The sales of Gold to the Importers from the Treasury Office to pay Customs, amount to $513,000, at 165 ₩ cent. The Customs paid in to-day amount to $434,000.

We have reason to repeat our intimation of Monday morning, that the Secretary of the Treasury is ready to commence the prepayment of the May interest on the 5-20 Loan, in Gold, on Friday next, 15th inst. If it be not done, the fault will rest with red tape or some other technical obstruction at the Treasury Office in this City, where we are unaccustomed to look for such petty difficulties. The twelve or fourteen millions of Gold to be thus released from the present hoard of twenty-six millions now in the New-York Treasury Office, will certainly be acceptable to the Foreign Exchange market, to the demands of which the rise in Gold, yesterday and to-day, is in good part attributed.

There was no unfavorable change in the Money market to the Stock Exchange borrowers, and speculation in the Railways was renewed with considerable vigor this morning, and continued through the day. There was also a good business in the Railway Bonds and Certificates, and higher prices made for Quicksilver and the Coal Stocks. The new Mining schemes, with the exception of Gregory Gold and Mariposa, were neglected, and when pressed on sale were lower. The numerous and formidable-looking (in point of money capital) new schemes in the Rocky Mountains and other quarters, bewilder public attention, and hurt the Shares of this character which had already been formally introduced to the Stock Exchange list.

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made in comparison with Monday night, the Railway market leaving off firm:

The Erie Railway Bill before the Legislature is now in the Assembly, reported complete from the Railroad Committee. This does not preclude amendments on the final reading, one of which is to give the present stockholders, in place of the Directors, control over the issues of the new stock. Why this was not done in the original draft of the bill is a matter of surprise. The alteration of a single word in the last section, as the bill passed the Senate, would still accomplish the purpose to taking this great power from the secret action of the Board of Directors, several of whom in this, as in other Railways, are suspected of jobbing in their own stock, before the proprietary, at large, are aware of the springs of their movement. The bill creates prospectively, no less than 80,000 new shares.

Our labor of yesterday in asking the Commercial to correct its misapprehension of the Loan Act of March 3, was thrown away. That recently metamorphosed journal asserts, this afternoon, that the words "in coin" were stricken out by the House of Representatives, which is untrue. They were not in the Bill as first passed by the House, where it originated, but were inserted by the Senate, on the motion of Mr. Anthony, of Rhode Island, and this amendment concurred in by the House. The Commercial, we are quite sure, ought not to have been ignorant of the official text of the Act, as approved by the President, even before we published and called attention to it yesterday.

The official report of the earnings of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad Companies, for the first week of April, show the following result:

	1864.	1863.
Eastern Division	$44,052	$30,405
Western Division	26,653	21,657
Total	$70,705	$52,062

The annual Dividend of 7 ₩ cent. on the Preference Shares of the Terre Haute and Alton Road has been declared payable on the 1st May.

The Mining Register of Colorado notices encouragingly the partial preparations making by the Gregory Company for the present season's mining.

Messrs. Muller, Wilkins & Co. will hold their regular auction sale of Stocks and Bonds, to-morrow, (Wednesday,) at 12½ o'clock, at the Exchange Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, by order of the Executor of William Mandeville. See auction column.

The books of subscription to the Bullion Gold Mining Company of Colorado Territory, whose prospectus was noticed and advertised a few days ago, will be opened to-morrow at the office of Jerome, Riggs & Co., No. 46 Exchange-place. The par value of this stock is $25 the share—25,000 shares only will be offered at $10 the share, the remainder having already been taken. Subscribers may pay the whole on subscription, or $5 on each share, and $5 on 10th of May, with interest from the 13th inst. The Trustees are men of character and responsibility; their names may be found in their advertisements. They assure that they will not lend themselves to any enterprise of questionable character, and, to protect their subscribers, will hold the funds confided to them until ample opportunity is given to examine and establish the value of their property.

Books of subscription for the Broad Top Coal and Iron Company, at $17 50 per share, will be opened at the office of Messrs. Jerome Riggs & Co. this morning. The property of the Company, we understand from this firm, to consist of 3,000 acres of land on Broad Top Mountain, in Huntingdon and Bedford Counties, Pennsylvania. There are seven beds of semi-bituminous coal upon the property, making in the aggregate twenty-eight feet of coal.

The day's business at the Office of the Assistant Treasurer of the United States at New-York was as follows: Total receipts, $3,325,721 57; for Customs, $434,000; payments, $4,784,690 41; total balance, $31,409,521 74. Ten-Forties, $325,750.

The week's exports of domestic produce and miscellaneous goods (exclusive of specie) have been to the value of $3,181,868, against $2,525,094 same week last year, and $2,458,539 the corresponding week of 1862.

Books of subscription for the purchase of Shares of this Company at $25 a share, are open at our office; $5 payable at the time of subscription, and the balance on May 2, 1864.

Attention is called to the letter of Sam. F. Butterworth, Esq., who has lately visited the property of the company.

MORSE & CO.,
No. 24 William-st., New-York.

APRIL 5, 1864.

NEW-YORK, April 4, 1864.

I visited this Mine in the month of December, 1863, accompanied by Guido Kustel, the most distinguished Metalurgist and Mining Engineer on the Pacific coast, for many years the Manager of the Ophir Works, and author of a valuable treatise on the "Processes of Silver and Gold Extraction," recently published in California. My opinion of the value and quality of this Mine is based on information derived from this gentleman, and on my own observations at the Mine.

The Mine is situated in Arizona, about three miles north of the northern boundary line of Sonora, and five miles distant from the celebrated Mowry Silver Mines; it is accessible at all seasons of the year, either by the way of Los Angelos, Libertad, or Guaymas. But little work has been done in developing the mine; enough, however, to discover the width and extent of the lode and determine the quality and value of the ores.

Where the shaft is sunk the vein is from four to six feet wide between lime-rock and garnet, running east and west, and exhibits galena or sulphuret of lead, carbonate of lead, zinc-blend and copper-pyrites; the richest is the sulphuret of lead, assaying one hundred and fifty-five dollars per ton; the vein has been prospected about half a mile. Mr. Kustel, in a letter addressed to the San Francisco owners, says: "The San Antonio lode appears, where the shaft is sunk, a good wide vein of ore, easy to reduce by fire, and will pay on an average, according to the proportions of the different metals, from seventy to ninety dollars per ton."

I believe there is an abundant supply of this ore, and that by an expenditure of a comparatively small sum of money, the mine can be put in a condition to produce 40 tons per day; if this ore averages only $80 per ton, the gross product of the mine would exceed $3,000 per day; the entire cost of mining and reducing a ton of this ore will not exceed twenty dollars.

On the premises, about 200 yards from San Antonio lode, in a N. E. direction, there is a very rich copper lode, six feet wide; the ores which we obtained from this lode, considered a fair average, assayed 80 ℔ cent. of copper and $76 in silver. Miners can be obtained in any number in the immediate vicinity, at about $10 ℔ month.

The reduction works of the mine are three miles distant from the mine, consisting of a small engine and two furnaces. There is an abundance of wood and water for all purposes on the property.

I consider the San Antonio a very valuable Silver Mine, If worked with skill and energy, it will produce most satisfactory results.

The property of the company consists of upwards of three hundred thousand feet of gold-bearing quartz vein, selected especially for its formation during the Summer of last year, from some of the richest and best developed veins in the Territory, long previous to the speculative excitement now existing, with special reference to a safe and profitable investment of capital. The advantage it possesses for profitable working of its veins, with its ample working capital, and the number of claims it can offer for sale for the formation of other companies, makes it the most desirable investment for capitalists ever offered to the public

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

By the arrival of the steamship Western Metropolis from Port Royal April 9, we have later news from the Department of the South. On the morning of the 1st inst. the transport-steamer Maple Leaf, while passing down the St. John's River, from Pilatka to Jacksonville, Fla., ran on a rebel torpedo, which exploded and sunk the vessel. The steamer, cargo and five of the crew (colored) were lost. Among the cargo was the camp and garrison equipage of three regiments, and those on board lost all their effects, among which was $20,000 worth of sutler's stores. An expedition up the river, soon afterward, captured and sent down to Jacksonville several of the torpedoes. The United States bark Kingfisher, which had been on blockade duty off Otter Island, coast of Florida, for fifteen months, had been blown ashore and wrecked. The vessel will be a loss, but her armament was saved. A recent reconnoissance from Jacksonville, by Col. HENRY, discovered the rebels in force six miles out of Jacksonville. Skirmishing ensued, in which the rebels lost thirty killed and wounded; our loss, only four wounded. There was nothing new in the fleet. It was the opinion in naval circles that Admiral DAHLGREN would not return to the command of the Blockading Squadron.

By an arrival at Cairo from New-Orleans we have important news from Texas and Mexico. Our cavalry, 4,000 strong, had advanced and occupied Eagle Pass, 400 miles above Brownsville, on the Rio Grande, and which had been a great point for running cotton into Mexico. Corpus Christi had been reoccupied by our troops and 800 prisoners captured. Immense quantities of cotton were falling into the possession of our forces. Reports from Mexico represent the French marching to attack Matamoras, and that one fight had already occurred, in which the French were victorious.

A dispatch from Nashville says it is certain, at last, that East Tennessee has been completely evacuated by the rebels, and that they have destroyed all the bridges in their retreat. It also adds that JOHNSTON's army is being reinforced by BEAUREGARD's and POLK's troops. The bulk of JOHNSTON's army is at Tunnel Hill.

The Port Royal (S. C.) Herald, of April 7, says Capt. JOHN HAMILTON, of the Third Artillery, who was severely wounded at the battle of Olustee, and who has been seriously ill in consequence of his wounds, is now surely and rapidly improving.

A dispatch from Cairo, yesterday, gives a rumor that FORREST was again advancing on Paducah, from the direction of Mayfield. A force of National troops had gone out to meet him.

The United States frigate Minnesota, off Newport's News, mouth of James River, was struck by a rebel torpedo on the night of the 8th instant, but no damage was done.

EUROPE.

By the arrival of the steamship Virginia at this port, yesterday, we have three days later news from Europe—to March 30. The steamship City of New-York, which arrived off Queenstown on the 29th, struck on Daunt's Rock when rounding Cork Head, and the latest dispatches report that she will prove a complete wreck. GARIBALDI was expected at Southampton on the 2d of April, and great preparations had been made to receive him. The Queen of England has officially announced her intention to hold a court at Buckingham Palace April 6, at which Her Majesty will receive the principal members of the Diplomatic Corps; and a second court on the 13th of April, to which a limited number of distinguished persons will be invited. Political affairs in England during the Parliamentary recess were quite unimportant. The allies had made an attempt to take the fortified position of Duppel by storm, but were repulsed, after five hours fighting. The Danish loss was one hundred killed and wounded. It was stated that the Conference on the Danish question would begin in London on the 12th of April. It was stated that on the ground of difficulties which have arisen as to the presumptive succession to the Austrian throne, the Archduke MAXIMILIAN has deterred the reception of the Mexican notables who were deputed to request his acceptance of the Mexican Crown.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, the Vice-President laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, in reply to a call for information as to the amount of money expended and the number of men employed to carry out the act for the collection of direct taxes in the insurrectionary districts. The Secretary submits a tabular statement giving all the information required. Mr. SUMNER introduced a bill for the establishment of a Bureau of Freedmen's Affairs, providing for the appointment of a Commissioner, with a salary of $4,000, and two clerks of each class. The bill for a State Government for Nebraska was taken up, but after discussion laid over. The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the Naval Appropriation Bill. An amendment was adopted changing the location of the Naval School from Newport to Annapolis, after the year 1865. Mr. POWELL offered an amendment to repeal the bounties given to vessels engaged in cod or other bank fisheries, which led to an excited debate between himself and Mr. CHANDLER. The amendment was lost by a tie vote. The Senate adjourned till Thursday.

In the House, Mr. STEVENS introduced a bill intended to prevent a depreciation of the currency by imposing a tax of one-fourth of one per cent. upon the circulation of all banks or corporations issuing notes as money. The resolution for the expulsion of Mr. LONG was then taken up, and debated until 5 P. M., when a recess was had for one hour, when the debate was resumed, and continued until 11½ P. M. A vote will not be reached until Thursday, to which time the House adjourned.

GENERAL NEWS.

On Monday evening Sergeant POLLEY, of the Twenty-first Police Precinct, was attacked by a gang of desperadoes, at Third-avenue and Thirty-third-street, while he was on duty. They beat him with clubs and stones and fired a revolver at him. He drew his revolver and fired three times at his assailants, fatally wounding, it is supposed, JAMES SPENCER alias "Jigger," and severely wounding "Bully Mahon." Sergeant POLLEY was severely injured and greatly disfigured. The desperadoes are said to be members of Engine Company No. 12. None are yet arrested.

In the case in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, of JAMES M. NIXON, the one-legged soldier, indicted for the the murder, last Summer, of WM. BROWN, of the Pewter Mug, a jury was impaneled yesterday, but the trial was adjourned until Thursday, because of one of the jurors, after being sworn in, stating he was opposed to capital punishment, and being excused in consequence.

The Louisville Journal explicitly asserts that Gov. BRAMLETTE prepared no proclamation other than the one he issued. It adds: "We repeat this direct and absolute denial, as we have already made it, on the authority of Gov. BRAMLETTE himself. We now leave the flickering calumny to go out in its socket."

It is announced in the Boston Pilot that Rt. Rev. Dr. MCCLOSKY, Roman Catholic Bishop of Albany, has been appointed Archbishop of New-York, and Rt. Rev. Dr. SPAULDING, of Louisville, Archbishop of Baltimore.

WILLIAM H. GIBNEY, a private of the Seventh New-York Heavy Artillery, convicted by Court-Martial of desertion, will be shot on the 15th inst., at Fort Columbus, Governor's Island, the sentence to that effect being approved.

The trial of DANIEL BROOKS, a negro, indicted for the murder of SMITH, a barkeeper in South-street, was taken up, yesterday, in the Court of General Sessions, and several witnesses examined.

Commodore AUGUSTUS L. CASE has been ordered to relieve Commodore RADFORD, at the Brooklyn Navy-yard, the latter being ordered to the command of the iron-clad Puritan.

The Live Stock Markets are supplied with 4,244 cattle, 1,872 veals, 9,676 sheep and 11,379 hogs for the week just ended. Trade has been good, and the demand continues active, with a scarcity of all kinds except calves. Beef cattle are higher than at any former time, good beeves selling quickly at 16c.@16½c. ℔ ℔. for the meat. Choice fat animals were weighed at 17c. and even 17½c. ℔ ℔., and rough, coarse oxen were rapidly picked up at 14c. The average of all kinds was fully 15c., making an advance of 1c. ℔ ℔. for the week, and stock sold off clean without supplying the demand....Calves are plenty, but poor, sent in before they have attained sufficient age. Good veals are worth 8½c.@9c. ℔ ℔, live weight.... Sheep are in quick demand, at an advance of ½c. ℔ ℔., selling at 10c.@10½c., and 10½c. if fat.... Live hogs are doing well, the different lots going off as fast as received, the best at 9½c.

Influenced by the rapid rise in Gold yesterday, prices of most kinds of Breadstuffs and Provisions advanced materially, with heavy sales reported, especially of Flour and Hog products. Cotton, Whisky and Tallow were also dearer and more sought after. Laths, Metals, Petroleum, Wool, Spices and Tobacco were in good request and advancing. Groceries were held with increased firmness, and were moderately inquired for. Heavier freight engagements were reported, but at unusually low rates, particularly by American vessels for Liverpool.

The Stock market was firm yesterday. Gold and Exchange were also up to 175 and 190½ respectively. Money easier to Stock Exchange borrowers at 7 ℔ cent. Government Stocks active; 5-20's 114 ℔ cent.; of the new 10-40's, over a million subscribed for.

How the Rebellion is Abetted—The Folly of the House.

Gold at 175, and Congress, with tax bills, tariff bills, bank bills, every financial measure, lifeless and shapeless, engaged in putting down freedom of debate in the National Capitol! In the name of loyal people we protest. It is a disgrace, and an outrage.

We tell these men at Washington that passion is making them mad. It is an absolute infatuation that has seized them. Their words strike upon the ears of the people like the gibberish of Bedlam. Where have the senses of Congressmen gone that they don't realize the terrible burdens that rest upon the people, and the fearful dangers that confront the Government? Do they call themselves loyal men, and yet play these fantastic tricks? By their default, the prices of everything that sustains life are rapidly mounting. The currency is gradually turning into worthless rags. Inch by inch, foot by foot, the Government moves on, straight before the eyes of its guardians, toward the bottomless pit of bankruptcy—yet distant, but unless they act, inevitable. Not an arm do they yet raise to save it. If they had but done the duty they were put to do, the credit of the Government would still be resting on its old foundations. They have neither done it, nor made any rational effort to do it. It is not misfortune, but guilt, that rests upon them; not failure, simply, but faithlessness.

It is astonishing, it is astounding, that the House, after this long and flagrant neglect of duty, should turn upon one of its members in this fierce fashion, for encouraging the enemy by words—by words which were made of air, and which if they had been let alone, would have straightway vanished into air. It is the wildness of the fireman who stands motionless while the flames are gathering headway, and falls foul of the man who declares that the fire will not be subdued. It is the inacton of these so-called loyal servants of the people that is aiding the rebellion ten thousand times more than the so-called disloyal speeches of the malcontents of the House. Not words, but acts are to decide this war. Unfaithfulness in respect to the former shrinks into insignificance; it is absolutely nothing, when measured against that other unfaithfulness in act, of which this House is every day making itself guilty.

Not content with the fatal dereliction of neglecting indispensable action, this body must superadd an equally fatal positive act. Unsatisfied with helping on the Southern rebels by depriving our Government of the sound credit which is its life, they must put into the hands of the Northern Copperheads a weapon of more deadly potency than they have ever yet handled or hoped for. How is it possible for true men so to misunderstand the American people, as to suppose they will submit quietly to this destruction of free debate in the council halls of the nation? What hellebore have they been drinking in Washington that has drugged their old perceptions? Are we to be told that American liberty is of the bastard type these men would make it? Has it, indeed, so degenerated since it was transported from its native land? Is our national Capitol so much below Parliament House, that men may only talk in it "by the card," and with bated breath? For the last hundred years who has heard of a parliamentary expulsion in England for words spoken in debate? If the House of Representatives expel Mr. LONG, as attempted, it will prove beyond all possibility of question or cavil that the freedom of debate under our boasted republicanism, is not even what it was under the British monarchy, against the tyranny of which we revolted. Every American school-boy knows that the language used in Parliament against the Government in favor of the American rebels, was a hundred times stronger than any that has been used in Congress against our Government in favor of the Southern rebels, and that it was used with perfect impunity in the very face of overwhelming Government majorities. Said Lord CHATHAM, in the House of Commons, in 1777, "If I were an American, as I am an Englishman, while a foreign troop was landed in my country, I never would lay down my arms—never, never, never!" Has anything like that been heard in Congress from the sympathizers with our rebellion? Said Fox, "There is not an American but must reject and resist the principle and the right." The worst that Mr. LONG said falls far short of that. Nothing is gained by saying that the American rebellion was right, and the Southern rebellion wrong—that CHATHAM's arguments were good and LONG's arguments bad. To the strong majorities in Parliament our rebellion was just as hateful, and the necessity of supporting Government, in a war already undertaken for the maintenance of its authority, just as imperative as can be here even with our own Congressional majorities in respect to our own rebellion. They did not curb the speech of the sympathizers with our rebellion, simply and solely because they did not have the constitutional power to do it. Neither does our Constitution give any such power.

We use plain language, because the crisis demands it. It is no time for honeyed speech, either toward men or parties. The cause of the country alone has claim. We will not look passively on while that cause is crippled, either by mistaken friends or malignant foes. It is sure of triumph if those who are specially deputed to save it, the leaders in the field, the legislators and administrators in civil life, and the conductors of the public press through which public opinion mainly speaks, do their duty faithfully and well. But if there be unfaithfulness in any of these spheres of action, untold calamity may come. We are as sure as of the sun at mid-day that the people are not satisfied with either the past inaction or the present action of their Representatives in Congress; that among great numbers of those most earnest in their loyalty, there is a discontent verging closely upon disgust. This discontent we do not deplore. It comes from the very highest and best qualities of the American nature. Were it absent, we should despair of the cause. A people that could be unmindful of such neglect in their public servants as these Representatives have displayed during the four months they have been in session, at such a critical period for the Government, and that could be insensible to the violation of parliamentary freedom, the most sacred principle in every representative government, would be a people alike unworthy and unable to maintain a conflict like this for the salvation of human freedom. Thank heaven, it is not so. There is discontent—for the most part silent, as yet, but, for all that, profound and intense. The so-called servants of the people in the Capitol of the nation are the source of it, and the object of it. It behooves them to give it heed.

Confiscation in New-York.

We publish this morning the full opinion of Judge BETTS upon his denial of the motion of the United States Attorney for a final decree confiscating certain property of LEROY M. WILEY, as forfeited under the Confiscation Acts. The perusal of the opinion has not taken away our surprise at some of the conclusions to which the Judge came. The property, as will be recollected, was some 1,756 shares of stock in the Great Western Railroad Company, and some $53,000 of money alleged to be due to him on coupons of the company.

The only way in which the property seems to have been seized by the Marshal in the case, was by leaving a copy of his process with the officers of the company. As far as the stock itself was concerned, probably this was the only way in which the process could have been executed. The money might have been, as it seems to us, brought into court. It has not been, however, and the Judge holds that the service of the process was not such as to authorize a final decree of condemnation of the property on a failure to appear, but that to obtain such a decree the United States must furnish further proof, not only of WILEY's ownership of the stock in question, but of his actual knowledge of the prosecution against this property, and of acts of aid and comfort given by him to the rebels.

We will not take time to show that in proceedings in admiralty and revenue cases, to which these proceedings are required to conform, the attachment of credits and effects of a party by service of the process upon the holder of them is sufficient to warrant a judgment against him on a default, nor to show, as we think we could, by analogy, that this service was sufficient to warrant a judgment confiscating WILEY's interest in this property. It may be very well that for abundant caution the court should require proof of his ownership of this property, even on a default, other than his attempt to answer in the case. But it seems to us remarkable that the Judge should require proof of his actual knowledge of the suit. If under the present state of the Confiscation Acts actual knowledge of the proceedings to confiscate a rebel's property must be brought home to him by proof, the statutes need amending. Such proof could not be given in one case in a thousand. It could never be obtained, in fact, except by accident. Nor do we see any reason for its being required. If proof is given that the man is a rebel, and that the property is his, why should it be further required that he should have personal notice of the suit? It seems the more unreasonable in this case because, as an effort was made to put in an answer for WILEY, the Court must have the evidence on its own files that he had knowledge of it, or must hold that the highly respectable firm of lawyers who appeared for him were acting without authority.

That the Judge should require further proof than was presented to him of WILEY's having given aid and comfort to the rebels, is yet more surprising. The evidence was positive to the effect that WILEY had helped raise troops for the rebel armies, had furnished rations and assistance from his plantation, and expended his money freely for the comfort of the rebel troops; and the Judge says that "there is undoubtedly most reasonable grounds for the gravest suspicions" that WILEY's feelings were with the rebels; but he adds, "I find only an instance or two in which the witness identifies acts or declarations of WILEY * * * plainly in interdiction of the acts of Congress."

We cannot help wondering how many acts that are interdicted by Congress a rebel must be guilty of before his property is to be confiscated. The statute gives us no light on the subject. It forfeits the property of all who "assist or give aid and comfort to the rebellion." Whether they do it once or a thousand times appears to be the same as far as the statute goes. If, then, our courts are going to establish a different rule, it certainly ought not to be left in so indefinite a position as this decision leaves it. Those who desire to give aid and comfort to the rebels might well complain that they were brought into that state of "miserable servitude where the law is uncertain," if some positive limit is not fixed up to which they may be free from apprehension of confiscation—if some number of times is not determined within which number they may give aid and comfort to the rebels without fear of the act of Congress.

PAY OF LETTER-CARRIERS.—There is a bill pending in Congress to increase the pay of letter-carriers in the principal cities. It is just and ought to pass. In this City the service performed by the letter-carriers is exceedingly laborious, and certainly is not adequately paid. The very high prices of provisions, clothing and all the necessaries of life, are felt more severely upon those who depend solely upon fixed salaries for support than upon any other portion of the community, for they do not share in the general improvement of business and the increased profits of nearly every branch of industry. While their expenses of living are largely increased, their means of meeting them remain fixed. The increase proposed for the letter-carriers is not excessive—and as the system is still an experiment, to some extent, those upon whose fidelity and labor its success must largely depend, ought to receive a just compensation for their services.

THE SOLDIERS AND THE SWORD.—We have seen the suggestion in two newspapers that the soldiers in the army be invited to take part in the sword contest which is now exciting so much interest at the Fair; and advertisements are published urging the soldiers to send on their dollars. We think the suggestion a bad one. The contest is innocent and entertaining enough for the folks hereabouts; but it could do nothing but harm to get up discussion and squabbling in the army as to who is the greatest General—GRANT or MCCLELLAN, ULYSSES of Vicksburgh, or GEORGE of Chickahominy. Gen. MCCLELLAN himself issued an order to repress the heated discussions among his troops, whose evils were at one time so apparent; and an order from Washington, some time since, censured the act of presenting swords or other gifts to officers by their troops. Furthermore, the money raised at the Fair is for the benefit of the soldiers in the field, and it would be a hard thing to deduct from their small allotment by any such dodge as this.

WAGNER AND DUPPEL.—The German allied army has found its Fort Wagner at Duppel, or Dybool as the Danes write it. That position is situated on a neck of land jutting eastward, something like Morris Island, while across the sound is the island of Alsen and the town of Sonderborg, which has been reached by the projectiles from the German artillery. After a siege (limited) of about two months, the allies made a general assault upon the position along the whole lines on the 28th of last month. The engagement lasted five hours or more, and resulted in the repulse of the allies by the Danes. Our telegrams, which are through Danish sources, say that after the third repulse, the Prussian soldiers refused to obey the command of their officers to advance—which statement will doubtless be denied point blank when we get the Prussian account of the affair. After their repulse, the Germans, it would seem, resumed the bombardment. If the war be not stopped, we shall doubtless hear of the fall of the place ere long.

At Duppel, as at Morris Island, a monitor, the Rolf Krake, takes part in operations, but in the former instance it is on the side of the defence, and seems to have done some work in annoying the German right flank.

TORPEDOES.—The rebels have begun their naval operations this year by a torpedo war. We have this morning two accounts of their labors. On the St. Johns River, in Florida, they succeeded in blowing up the steamer Maple Leaf by a torpedo, and in the James River, they made a desperate effort to destroy the steam frigate Minnesota by the same means, but failed. We have advices from Europe that MAURY was getting extensive experiments made for him in this branch of the rebel fine arts. These inventions are probably the result of his efforts. Our vessels on the Southern seaboard and rivers must keep a sharp lookout for them.

A PERSONAL MATTER.—We have seen a private letter from Mrs. DOUGLAS, widow of the late STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, to a friend in this City, in which she denies, in the most explicit and emphatic manner, the reports which have been going the rounds of the newspapers that she is employed as a clerk in one of the departments at Washington. She complains, naturally enough, of the annoyance which the circulation of this unfounded statement occasions her. It probably had its origin in the mistake of some correspondent not so familiar with her personal appearance as he supposed himself to be, and has been thoughtlessly copied by others.

Amusements.

WINTER GARDEN.—This evening Miss AVONIA JONES will appear in a standard character in which she acquired her European fame, having played for ninety consecutive nights at Drury Lane, and sixty at the Adelphi. It will offer an opportunity of really judging of her merits.

General Anderson and Fort Sumter.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

April 13th, (to-day,) is the anniversary of the attack on and the glorious defence of Fort Sumter. While the ladies of our land are engaged, heart and hand, in providing for our sick and disabled soldiers, will they—will the country forget him who then so nobly maintained his country's honor, and so gallantly defended the dear old flag, and who is now "sick and disabled," from the responsibilities which then devolved upon him, and the privations and sufferings which he there endured? Shall not some fitting recognition be made, on that day, of the good and faithful service he has rendered his country, and be the occasion of doing something which would gratify and benefit the Christian Hero, who sacrificed all, save his honor, for love of the dear old Union? THE METROPOLITAN FAIR.

Another Successful Day—Receipts $38,684 15—Admission Reduced to Fifty Cents.

EIGHTH DAY.

Yesterday, the eighth day of the Fair, was like the previous day, in the morning very unpleasant. This, however, did not deter the people from coming, and the attendance was fully as good as usual. About 2 o'clock the sky cleared up, and from that time till the close of the fair, the buildings were crowded. It seems as though nothing can weaken the interest taken by the people in this great fair. Day after day it is crowded to its utmost, and day after day the immense crowds of visitors go away, satisfied that in one day they cannot half see its beauties, and determined to pay it another visit. All the departments and stands were very well patronized, and the lady attendants in consequence were as happy and smiling as little fairies.

AUTOGRAPH DEPARTMENT.

The Autograph Department, in the Art Gallery, is one of great interest. The number of contributions is very great, and comprises very many of great value. Some have sold as high as sixty dollars. Not much attention has been called to the rare and valuable collection, but the curious have sought it out and feasted themselves upon the autograph letters and manuscripts of the noted of the past and present.

THE SWORDS.

The sword excitement was yesterday even greater than on Monday. Another subscription book has been opened at the International Department, in the Union-square buildings, which promises to be nearly as well patronized as the one in the Department of Arms and Trophies. At the time of closing last evening, the vote stood as follows:

Total number of votes cast at Fourteenth-street Building	7,004
Total number of votes cast at Union-square Buildings	71
Total	7,075
Of this number
Gen. MCCLELLAN has received	3,597
Gen. GRANT has received	3,438
Scattering	40

Gen. MCCLELLAN is therefore 159 ahead.

In consequence of a reported desire expressed by soldiers in the army, and by non-residents, to take part in the sword contest, Messrs. TIFFANY & Co. will act as receivers of monies and votes, sent by soldiers or civilians, and will promptly acknowledge receipt and give the votes as the senders direct. They have published a notice, which will be found elsewhere, to this effect.

SWORD PRESENTATION.

Two beautiful swords, which have for some days past been exhibited in the Department of Arms and Trophies for subscription, were last evening presented to the two fortunate officers. The first was presented to Lieut. S. M. BENJAMIN, of Benjamin's New-York Battery—the soldier who defended Fort Saunders, fought under POPE, and was in nearly all the battles of the Army of the Potomac.

Col. RUSH C. HAWKINS, to whose knowledge and exertions the success of the department of Arms and Trophies is in a great measure due, and who has, by his excellent arrangement and management, made himself very popular with all who have visited the fair, presented the sword to Lieut. BENJAMIN, with the following brief but excellent speech:

LIEUTENANT: I have been assigned the pleasant duty of presenting to you a slight gift, which is meant to be an expression of the esteem in which you are held by a few of your admiring friends, who have been cognizant of the courage you have displayed upon so many well-fought battle-fields, and who sympathize with you in your devotion to the cause of your country and human liberty. It affords me still greater pleasure to know that a worthy companion in arms, who has served with great distinction, is known by those who appreciate true worth and can sift the wheat from the chaff. I feel that my poor speech would add but little to this graceful compliment so worthily bestowed. So I will simply place this sword in your hands without further words, knowing that it will never be drawn without cause, or sheathed without honor.

Lieut. BENJAMIN responded in a modest and soldierly manner, which won for him the admiration of all.

Judge DALY then, in an eloquent speech, presented the sword to Col. WILCOX, paying a high tribute to his worth and valor.

Col. O. S. WILCOX responded in a feeling speech, expressing his love for this country and its welfare, and his willingness to die, if necessary, for its good. His speech was very well received and frequently interrupted by applause.

The presentation was made at the Atheneum Club, and, after the speeches were over, a splendid supper and the finest wines discussed, and at a late hour the party broke up, having heartily enjoyed their evening's entertainment.

THE ART GALLERY.

It will doubtless be interesting to the many lovers of the fine arts, who visit the Art Gallery, to know that nearly 200 beautiful paintings, which have been donated by our artists to the Metropolitan Fair, can be purchased at private sale. This is a very extensive and elegant collection, and an opportunity for selection seldom if ever offered before, and one which will probably not occur again for a very long time.

RECEIPTS.

Owing to the threatening and disagreeable weather, the receipts were not quite as large as on the previous day. They are as follows:

Sales to 3 o'clock P. M	$13,433 47
Received for admissions	7,424 25
Received for donations	17,826 43
Total	$38,684 15

TICKETS.

The Executive Committee have decided that to-day, and until further notice, the price of admission shall be fifty cents.

The signature book, introduced by Mr. MOSS, which we mentioned yesterday, has had an excellent effect. Many ladies and gentlemen refused to sign their names, and indignantly left the fair.

Query.—Were they borrowers of season tickets?

THE UNION-SQUARE FAIR BUILDINGS.

The Metropolitan Fair Concert Hall was crowded last evening beyond all precedent, to listen to a grand concert given by the Arion Society, assisted by an orchestra of 40 performers under Mr. C. BERGMANN. The programme was excellent, and fully carried out. The soldiers' chorus from "Faust" was heard here to even greater advantage than in the Opera, and was certainly better sung. To-night the famous ROBERT HELLER will appear in a mingled musical and sleight-of-hand entertainment. There is no extra charge to this performance, single admission tickets and season tickets being on exactly the same footing.

THE INTERNATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

A book is now placed in this department, in which subscriptions may be written to the army sword. About sixty dollars were received at this branch sword office during the evening, and Gen. GRANT had the majority of designations. The bouquet and flower-stand here rivals the celebrated temple of Flora, and the attendant nymphs and graces are unrivaled in sweetness and beauty even by the buds and flowers that surround them.

THE KNICKERBOCKER KITCHEN.

The kitchen is continually overflowed by a stream of visitors. There is only one complaint made here, and that is want of room. It ought to have been twice as large, is the constant expression.

Ocean Steamers.

The French Marching to Attack Matamoras.

CAIRO, Tuesday, April 12.

The steamer Paulina Carroll, from New-Orleans the 5th, has arrived, with Gen. MCPHERSON and staff among her passengers.

The steamship George Washington, from New-York, arrived at New-Orleans on the 4th inst., with $80,000 in gold.

The transport St. Marys, from Brazos Santiago, had also arrived.

The Federal Cavalry, 4,000 strong, occupied Eagle Pass, after a slight resistance from the rebels. Eagle Pass is 400 miles above Brownsville, and has been the great rebel highway for running cotton and other articles into Mexico. It was determined that our troops should permanently occupy the place.

The French were marching on Matamoras. A fight had taken place, in which the French were victorious.

Three French frigates were off the bar, preparing to cross.

CORTINAS had issued a proclamation, ordering all the troops to concentrate on the Rio Grande, below Matamoras, to resist the occupation of that place by the French.

Corpus Christi had been reoccupied by our forces, and they had captured 800 prisoners. The old residents had nearly all left the place previous to its occupation.

Eight hundred California cavalry had arrived overland and joined the Union forces.

Refugees from rebel conscription were flocking into our lines by hundreds daily.

Immense quantities of cotton had been secured by our troops.

The First Texas Cavalry, 1,100 strong, were cooperating with our forces.

Corn and cotton planting had commenced in Louisiana. There had been several frosts in the country.

It was reported that the steamer Luminary had been destroyed by fire on the Red River.

The steamer Polar Star had taken 800 prisoners from New-Orleans up the Red River, it was supposed to be exchanged at Shreveport, where about that number of our men are in rebel hands.

The citizens of Alexandria were forming Home Guard companies for protection.

The Rebel Forrest.

CAIRO, Tuesday, April 12.

About twenty Federals were taken prisoners in the recent fight at Augusta.

Gen. DIXON, with a large rebel force has succeeded in crossing the Arkansas River.

Memphis cotton market active and firm. Considerable inquiry, and good deal offering. Receipts light. Shipments, 800 bales. Prices range 62c.@67c.

FROM NORFOLK.

The Attempt to Blow Up the Minnesota—Escape of the Conspirators.

Correspondence of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

NORFOLK, Va., Saturday, April 9, 1864.

No one but a traitor most vile could conceive or execute a deed so base as the one which was attempted this morning upon the Minnesota, the flagship of the blockading squadron, stationed at the mouth of James River. It was about two o'clock when an object upon the water was discovered approaching by the deck officer of the Minnesota. Moving noiselessly forward, nearer and nearer, it was hailed, but no reply was elicited.

It did not stop its course, but continued to advance in the direction of the ship. It was hailed again, and at this time, as before, no answer came. Hailing it the third time, the officer shouted, "If you do not answer we will fire into you." "A boat from the Roanoke; fire and be ——," was quickly returned. An instant afterward, the Minnesota experienced a tremendous shock. Men were thrown violently out of their hammocks, and balls and shells rolled from where they were stored. The crockery ware was all shattered into innumerable fragments. The force of the concussion was so great that it sprung some of the timbers and started the decks slightly out of position.

The torpedo was placed amidship, and was not properly adjusted. Had it been rightly fixed to the vessel, there can be no doubt that it would have been blown to atoms and the hundreds of unconscious sleeping men hurled into eternity, without the least warning. Amid the confusion and excitement prevailing, the boat that brought the torpedo down managed to escape.

The rebels must have become possessed of many important facts concerning the strength and position of our fleet.

The picket boats in the river had been materially reduced within a short time past. Three had been sent to this city for repairs, and another to the storeship at Fortress Monroe for supplies. These were the most formidable small gun-boats of the fleet. But, notwithstanding all this, it seems exceedingly strange that the mysterious craft could come down the river past all the remaining picket boats, and not be observed until almost alongside the flag-ship, which lay nearer the mouth of the river than any other vessel of the fleet.

Had there been less darkness prevailing, and a full head of steam on some of the boats, the rebel boat could have been captured. Where she came from is not known, but it is surmised that she ran out of the Chuckatuck. She must have been propelled by muffled oars as she neared the flag-ship, but as soon as the torpedo was attached she steamed rapidly away. The report made by the explosion was very heavy. It was heard very distinctly at Fortress Monroe. The Minnesota was going North for repairs in a few days, and this, too, might be one reason why the rebel emissaries made the attempt at this time.

Whether this is a prelude to the bringing down of the Richmond rams remains to be seen. These rams are lying inactive and useless at the rebel capital, and it has been for months past suspected that they would some dark night make the endeavor to run past the blockading fleet and push out to sea. There was a great recklessness displayed on the part of the rebels, and it seems as though some scientific and experienced men were engaged in the undertaking. Surely they subjected themselves to much peril, and it is a great pity that they were not blown up for their temerity.

A Miracle in Perfumery, PHALON & SON'S Extract of the Night Blooming Cereus may well be called. The fluid, when dropped upon the robe, the gloves, the handkerchief, soon evaporates, without leaving a stain; the exquisite fragrance, on the other hand, remains permanently.—Cincinnati Commercial.

A Neglected Cough, Cold or Sore Throat, which might be checked by a simple remedy like BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES, if allowed to progress, may terminate seriously.

Morton's Gold Pens are now sold at the same prices as before the commencement of the war; this is entirely owing to the Manufacturer's improvements in machinery, his present large Retail Business and Cash-in-Advance System; for, until he commenced advertising, his business was done on Credit and strictly with the Trade.

The Morton Gold Pens are the only ones sold at old prices, as the makers of all other gold pens charge the Premium on the Gold, Government Tax, &c.; but Morton has in no case changed his prices, wholesale or retail.

Of the great numbers sent by mail to all parts of the world during the past few years, not one in a thousand has failed to reach its destination in safety; showing that the Morton Gold Pen can be obtained by any one, in every part of the world, at the same price, postage only excepted.

Reader, you can have an enduring, always ready, and reliable Gold Pen, exactly adapted to your hand and style of writing, which will do your writing vastly cheaper than Steel Pens; and at the present almost universal High-Pressure Price of everything, you can have a Morton Gold Pen cheaper, in proportion to the labor spent upon it and material used, than any other Gold Pen in the World. If you want one, see "The Pen is Mightier than the Sword," in another column.

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH CURED.

No. 420 SIXTH-AV., NEW-YORK, Dec. 2, 1863.

I was deaf for several years, and hearing of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I was induced to place myself under his care, and I am now happy to state that my hearing was entirely restored after a short treatment. I was also suffering from chronic catarrh, of which I was also cured by the skillful treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I do but justice to the Doctor in stating that in treating me he displayed that skill and knowledge which have already procured for him such a deserved reputation, and that the principles which direct his system of curing Deafness and Catarrh are such as to render success certain, in my opinion. Many months have passed since Dr. Von Eisenberg restored my hearing, and it continues as good as ever.

CATARRH CURED.

READ!

I have been suffering for a long time from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery, and very painful. My nostrils were constantly obstructed with a pouring fluid. That frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, often attended with a fullness of my throat, great soreness, and a continual dropping. Dr. Von Eisenberg has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. may, indeed, say that I fee a new life. The treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg is as skillful as it is successful. It is in my opinion impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one sufferin like myself to place themselves under Dr. on Eisen erg's care, with a certainty of being speedily cured.

HARLEM, July 30, 1863.

I have been deaf for over TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and Dr. VON EISENBERG operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done. I now hear well, and feel as I never felt for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

WILLIAM LIDDLE,

NO. 134 ALLEN-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

READ.

NEW-YORK, March 26, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

U. S. 10-40 BONDS.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1864, which provides that in lieu of so much of the loan authorized by the Act of March 3, 1863, to which this is supplementary, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to borrow from time to time, on the credit of the United States, not exceeding TWO HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS, during the current fiscal year, and to prepare and issue therefor Coupon and Registered Bonds of the United States; and all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any State or municipal authority.

Subscriptions to these bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually, and on all other bonds semi-annually.

The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year. The semi-annual Coupons are payable at those dates, and the annual Coupons on the 50 and 100 dollar Bonds are payable on the first of March.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds, as they may prefer.

Registered Bonds will be issued of the denominations of fifty dollars ($50), one hundred dollars ($100), five hundred dollars ($500), one thousand dollars ($1,000), five thousand dollars ($5,000), and ten thousand dollars ($10,000), and Coupon Bonds of the denominations of fifty dollars ($50), one hundred dollars ($100), five hundred dollars ($500), and one thousand dollars ($1,000).

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their bonds draw interest from March 1, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium), or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit.

As these Bonds are exempt from municipal or State taxation, their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay over eight per cent. interest in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of United States Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

The fact that all duties on imports are payable in specie, furnishes a fund for like payment of interest on all Government Bonds, largely in excess of the wants of the treasury for this purpose.

Upon the receipt of subscriptions a certificate of deposit therefor, in duplicate, will be issued, the original of which will be forwarded by the subscriber to the Secretary of the Treasury, at Washington, with a letter stating the kind (registered or coupon) and the denominations of bonds required.

Upon the receipt of the original certificates at the Treasury Department, the Bonds subscribed for will be transmitted to the subscribers respectively.

Subscriptions will be received by the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, and the Assistant Treasurers at New-York, Boston, and Philadelphia, and by the

No pen has ever before drawn such pictures as are presented in this volume. Domestic life amid the terrific scenes of the siege of Vicksburgh is described by a gentle and accomplished lady, a wife and a mother, whose husband was an absent officer. The heroism of woman's character, its calm faith, resignation and courage, amid dangers of a most appalling nature, illustrated with simplicity and beauty.

Some of the Essays may be considered as Theological, yet all are written in a popular style, and interesting to the general reader. The Essay on Death, and that on Grace are particularly instructive and beautiful. They are conceived in the spirit of devout piety, and are replete not only with instruction in Faith, but with lessons of practical duty. The style is classical and chaste, free from meritricious ornament and unsafe excursions of the imagination.

THE ENGLISH PRESS AND PARTON'S GEN. BUTLER AT NEW-ORLEANS.

From the (London) Morning Star.

Many who do not care even for the interesting details and graphic descriptions in which the book abounds, may yet like to know that it contains ample materials for an independent judgment on the General's military abilities, civil administration and personal integrity. On none of these points is the opinion of England favorable to Butler; on one, at least, it has been strongly expressed in adverse terms. Even among sympathizers with the Northern and Abolitionist cause it is not uncommon to hear his government of New-Orleans either denounced or but faintly defended. It is so hard to remove an unjust impression of a living man, that we fear the General must be content to bear, for some time to come, with much of undeserved odium. But that it is undeserved, the documents published by Mr. Parton can leave no candid man in doubt. Impartiality is almost impossible. Everybody has taken sides for or against the much-abused New-England General. But the strongest prejudices are weaker with honest minds than the strength of evidence; and this, at least, may be demanded, that no one continue to bespatter Gen. Butler with the abuse of presumptuous blundering in soldiership, tyranny in government, and rapacity in the private use of public powers, until he has examined the evidence now for the first time collected. There is here incontestible proof that Butler is a man of abilities equal to anything he has undertaken, of rigorous justice and integrity, pure from all taint of venality, and generous in the use both of his private means and official powers. It is to be wished there were not equal proof of his having been ill rewarded for his great achievements, and studiously held back from even greater opportunities. But jealousy is not the peculiar vice of republics, and the highest man in the American Commonwealth is among the least open to imputations of envy or of ingratitude. It is in the Foreign Office at Washington, Gen. Butler seems to have been awarded the penalty of zeal and success; and it is to be feared that European influences have had a good deal to do with his relegation to comparative obscurity.

From the London Spectator.

This biography leaves on our minds no doubt that the Union possesses in Gen. Butler a man of rare and original capacity, extraordinarily fitted for constructive administration, and without any tendency to cruelty, though with that indifference to the feelings of others so often marked in very strong men. Of all the men who fill our European history, the one he is most like—strangely like—is Frederick the Great.

PARTON'S GEN. BUTLER AT NEW-ORLEANS continues its extraordinary sale. The FIFTEENTH EDITION is already in press.

FAIRS.

MARYLAND STATE FAIR FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE UNITED STATES SANITARY AND CHRISTIAN COMMISSIONS.

The Maryland State Fair will be opened with appropriate ceremonies, at the Maryland Institute, in the City of Baltimore, on MONDAY, 18th of April, at 6½ P. M., a day ever memorable for the first assault and maltreatment of the soldiers of the sister State of Pennsylvania marching over the common highway of the Republic, to the defence of the Capital of our common country, and the prelude to the atrocities committed in our streets against the patriot sons of Massachusetts on the 19th.

Although her soil has been seared and furrowed by the thread of rebel armies, the daughters of Maryland will not yield to those of any State in placing upon the altar of their beloved country a tribute to the brave defenders of their homes and firesides. Although they may not reach the brilliant results attained in the favored cities of the East and West, valued in money, they will not concede to any a greater degree of devotion to the sublime labor of love exhibited by the agents of the Sanitary Commission, and its no less zealous companion the Christian Commission, on every battle-field. Not only has the soldier, bleeding and dying in defence of the eternal right of man to self-government, been assisted and comforted, but the wind of adversity has been tempered to the misguided men who have taken up arms to effect its overthrow.

Contributions in money and goods are earnestly solicited from our merchants, manufacturers, mechanics, farmers and others, and can be addressed to any of the undersigned, or sent to the hall of the Institute, on and after WEDNESDAY, April 13, where they will be received and taken charge of by the Hall Committee.

The various Express Companies will transport articles free of charge.

The programme of the ceremonies of inauguration of the Fair will be announced hereafter.

Tickets of admission to the main hall of the Institute can be had at the following places, on and after WEDNESDAY, April 13, viz.:

Messrs. Cushing & Bailey's, No. 262 W. Baltimore-st.

Messrs. Canfield, Bros. & Co.'s, corner Baltimore and Charles-st.

Mr. James S. Waters, No. 168 W. Baltimore-st.

Messrs. Chas. Reese & Co., corner Madison and Eutaw sts.

Messrs Armstrong & Berry, No. 156 W. Baltimore-street, and at the Ticket Office of the Institute, on and after 18th April, and at following prices:

Single Tickets—For the first evening	$1.00
Single Tickets—After the first evening	25
Season Tickets—Good for the entire week of the Fair, after the first evening	1.00
Season Tickets—issued to ladies having charge of tables, &c., and their designated assistants only, and good for the entire week, including the first evening	1.00

No season tickets are transferable, or allowed to be used except by those to whom issued. Ladies having charge of tables, &c., will please hand in, as soon as practicable, at the store of Messrs. Cushings & Bailey, and addressed to the "Joint Executive Committee," a list of names and the number of tickets desired by them, as above.

There will be an exhibition of rare and valuable Paintings in the Rooms of the School of Design of the Institute, for which season tickets will be issued at the above places for 50 cents; single tickets 25 cents. Other exhibitions, of Tableaux, &c., will be announced, as arrangements are perfected.

Arrangements have been made with the various railroad companies and steamboat lines running into the City, by which tickets will be issued (with admission coupons attached) at greatly reduced rates of fare.

The Public School Commissioners have announced a holiday to the scholars for the afternoons of Thursday and Friday, April 21 and 22.

Articles purchased will not be removed until after the first evening of the Fair; by this feature an opportunity will be offered to all to see the rare and beautiful articles as first arranged.

A daily newspaper will be published and sold at the Fair.

Meals can be obtained at all hours at the Lunch Rooms, and also at the "New-England Kitchen," which is expected to be one of the most interesting features of the Fair.

The Music for the Fair will be under the direction of Professor Deems.

The Fair will be opened at 10 o'clock on each morning; the Drum Corps will beat the "tattoo" at 10½ P. M.—"taps" at 11, when it is expected that the Rooms will be immediately vacated.

The "3d Quality" he intends shall equal in respect to Durability, Elasticity and Good Writing Qualities (the only true considerations) any Gold Pens made elsewhere.

In regard to the Cheap Gold Pens, he begs leave to say that, previous to operating his New and Patented Machines, he could not have made as Good Writing and Durable Pens for the price, had the Gold been furnished gratuitously.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

his colleague (LONG) was made for that purpose. The speech of the gentleman (LONG) was made in a calm, decorous and argumentative manner. Were gentlemen on the other side afraid of the argument of his colleague? Were they afraid to trust the country? Were they, with the power which stood behind them, afraid of an honest expression of opinion? Were they afraid of the speech of his colleague (LONG) made at the proper time, and under the rules of the House? The truth was that the matter was entirely beyond the jurisdiction of the House. All that the House could do was to punish for "disorderly conduct."

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, (Union,) inquired whether the gentleman (PENDLETON) did not during the last Congress vote to expel two members of this House for other than "disorderly conduct?"

Mr. PENDLETON asked, what two?

Mr. WASHBURNE replied, Mr. READ, of Missouri, and Mr. BURNETT, of Kentucky.

Mr. PENDLETON said he voted for their expulsion because they were in arms against the Government. Did not the gentleman from Illinois (WASHBURNE) consider that "disorderly conduct?"

Mr. WASHBURNE replied, that he accepted the explanation.

Mr. GARFIELD, of Ohio, (Union,) would put a case to his colleague (PENDLETON) in order to obtain a better understanding of his views. Suppose that he should, in a decorous manner, introduce here the plans of Gen. GRANT for the campaign about to be commenced, and suppose that he should oppose such plans and state the number of men, etc., that would not be disorderly conduct, but was it not an offence for which he should be punished.

Mr. PENDLETON replied: If the gentleman (GARFIELD) obtained his facts of the campaign from the newspapers, and the facts were of public notoriety, he (GARFIELD) would be perfectly right in mentioning them, and it was not in the power of the House to punish him for it. But if the gentleman (GARFIELD) went to the War Department and procured important information under the seal of secrecy, and he came here and made a speech openly unfolding that information, when he (GARFIELD) had a right to move that the doors of the House be closed, and by thus publicly speaking gave aid and comfort to the enemy, that would be "disorderly conduct" of the gravest character.

Mr. PENDLETON, in conclusion, alluded to the history of the past, including in its events the presentation of a memorial here by JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, from Haverhill, Mass., asking for a dissolution of the Union, and also referred to a former remark of Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, in which he (STEVENS) said that "he would never vote for the restoration of the Union with the protection of Slavery."

Mr. AMOS MYERS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) said that in their experience as lawyers they had never before seen a man come into court and express his guilt. All the gentleman from Ohio (LONG) had to do to show himself a full rebel was to present his revolver. They would not have to wait long for him to join the rebel army after he had been excluded from this hall. Our soldiers would take him by the neck and heels and throw him out of their camps, for declaring such sentiments as he had done in the presence of him (MYERS.)

Mr. MYERS then alluded to the speech of Mr. LONG, examining into his motives and maintaining that he (LONG) had the heart of a traitor, and had made use of language similar to that of others previous to their openly going into the rebellion. He (MYERS) should vote for the expulsion of the gentleman from Ohio, (LONG,) for the reason that he believed from the member's (LONG's) own declaration that he preferred the recognition of the Southern Confederacy to the subjugation of the South.

A conversation here took place among members concerning the time at which the debate shall be closed.

Mr. COLFAX, of Indiana, was willing to close the debate to-night, and not to call the question on the expulsion till early Thursday afternoon.

Mr. FENTON, of New-York, (Union,) was anxious that the debate should be closed to-night, in order that the House might proceed to the consideration of other business, including that relating to taxes and finances, and especially in view of the fact that gold is now rising rapidly in the market, owing to our present monetary condition.

A motion was here made, at a quarter to 5 o'clock, for a recess until 6 o'clock.

This motion was agreed to. Recess.

EVENING SESSION.

At 6 o'clock the galleries were crowded. There were very few members present, as no vote will be taken till Thursday.

The debate was continued at length by Messrs. CRAVENS and HARRINGTON, of Indiana, BOUTWELL, of Massachusetts, WINFIELD, of New-York, ELDRIDGE, of Wisconsin, BROOMALL, of Pennsylvania, and others.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Tuesday, March 12.

At 12 o'clock M., to-day, the two Houses of the Legislature proceeded to the nomination of two Regents of the University, in place of Rev. JOHN N. CAMPBELL, deceased, and JOHN L. GRAHAM, resigned. The Senate ordered to a third reading, this morning, the bill passed by the Assembly, defining the manner in which soldiers may vote. CONSTITUTION
LIFE SYRUP, COMPOSED OF IODIDE POTASSIUM, with the Compound Concentrated Fluid Extract of VALUABLE MEDICINAL ROOTS AND HERBS,
PREPARED BY WM. H. GREGG, M. D.,
Graduate College of Physicians and Surgeons, N. Y., formerly Assistant Physician Blackwell's Island Hospitals, late Medical Inspector New-York
State Volunteer Depots, under
Gov. Edwin D. Morgan.

CONSTITUTION LIFE SYRUP
HAS PRODUCED
A REVOLUTION IN MEDICINE!

What may seem almost incredible, is, that many diseases hitherto considered hopelessly incurable, are frequently cured in a few days or weeks, and we cheerfully invite the investigations of the liberal-minded and scientific to cures which have no parallel at the present day.

Our medicine is peculiar; by it the seat of any disease is directly reached, and the equilibrium restored.

Those who have suffered long from painful and obstinate diseases,

Those who have vainly sought relief from advertised medicines,

Those who cannot be cured by other physicians—

ARE INVITED TO USE CONSTITUTION LIFE SYRUP.

During the past five years we have contended with obstacles and overcome opposition as herculean as were ever encountered by any reformers.

RAPIDITY OF CURE.

Some say, "Your cures are too quick," while others doubt their permanence, and think that diseases can only be cured by the "slow recuperative process of Nature."

This is our reply:

In health, the body, like a well-balanced scale, is in a state of equilibrium. But when from any cause down goes one side of the scale, we have the effects of disease. What is requisite is, to restore the normal balance of the scale.

CONSTITUTION LIFE SYRUP,

a positive and specific remedy for all diseases originally from an IMPURE STATE OF THE BLOOD, and for all (hereditary) DISEASES transmitted from PARENT TO CHILD.

PARALYSIS.

HEMIPLEGIA. PARESIS. PARAPLEGIA. PARALYSIS AGITANS.

It is so universally admitted that Constitution Life Syrup is the only effective means of restoration in the various forms of Paralysis, that we need not reiterate that it is emphatically the Great Life-giving Power.

DYSPEPSIA.

INDIGESTION. LIVER COMPLAINT. CONSTIPATION.
WEIGHT AT STOMACH. BILIOUSNESS. WANT OF APPETITE.
FLATULENCE. BAD BREATH.

SCROFULA.

STRUMA, GLANDULAR SWELLINGS, ULCERATION,
KING'S EVIL, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM.

This taint (HEREDITARY AND ACQUIRED), filling life with untold misery, is by all usual medical remedies incurable.

RHEUMATISM.

[ARTHRITIS.] NEURALGIA. TIC DOULOUREUX.
LUMBAGO. SCIATICA. GOUT.

If there is any disease in which the Constitution Life Syrup is a sovereign, it is in Rheumatism and its kindred affections. The most intense pains are almost instantly alleviated—enormous swellings are reduced. Cases, chronic or vicarious, of 20 or 30 years' standing, have been cured by us.

NERVOUSNESS.

NERVOUS DEBILITY, SHATTERED NERVES,
LOSS OF POWER, CONFUSION OF THOUGHTS,
ST. VITUS' DANCE. EPILEPSY.

Thousands who have suffered for years will bless the day on which they read these lines. Particularly to weak, suffering woman will this medicine prove an inestimable blessing—directing their footsteps to a Hope which fulfills more than it promises.

MERCURIAL DISEASES.

SALIVATION. ROTTING OF BONES.
BAD COMPLEXION. ACHES IN BONES.
FEELING OF WEARINESS. DEPRESSION OF SPIRITS.

CONSTITUTION LIFE SYRUP purges the system entirely from all the evil effects of MERCURY, removing the Bad Breath, and curing the Weak Joints and Rheumatic Pains which the use of Calomel is sure to produce. It hardens Spongy Gums and secures the Teeth as firmly as ever.

CONSTITUTION LIFE SYRUP

eradicates, root and branch, all Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, like

and all other difficulties of this kind, which so much disfigure the outward appearance of both males and females, often making them a disgusting object to themselves and their friends.

CONSTITUTION LIFE SYRUP
CURES ALL SWELLING OF THE GLANDS,

either of the Face, Neck, or Female Breast, and should be taken as soon as the swelling is detected, thus preventing their breaking, and producing troublesome Discharging Sores, which disfigure so many of the younger portion of the community, from six to twenty years of age. Young children are very subject to Discharges from the Ears, which depends upon a Scrofulous constitution. These cases soon recover by taking a few doses of the Life Syrup.

All scrofulous persons suffering from general Debility, Emaciation, Dyspepsia and Dropsy of the limbs, abdomen, and in the female, Dropsy of the ovaries and womb, generally accompanied with Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, are permanently cured by Constitution Life Syrup. The disease known as Goitre or Swelled Neck, the Life Syrup will remove entirely. The remedy should be taken for some time, as the disease is exceedingly chronic and stubborn, and will not be removed without extra effort.

Tumors of the Ovaries, Tumors of the Breast, and swelling of other glands of the body, will be completely reduced without resorting to the knife, or operations of any kind.

Epileptic Fits, Sympathetic or Organic Diseases of the Heart, as palpitation, Disease of the Valves, producing a grating or filing sound, Dropsy of the Heart Case and all the affections of this important organ, (persons suffering from any acute pain in this region of the heart) will be greatly relieved by Constitution Life Syrup.

It has been from time immemorial the object of philanthropists to find some remedy for the ills of life, and scientific skill has for ages explored every avenue in order to discover the hidden secret. It has been, however, reserved for modern science to bring before the world the great destroyer of disease, and in HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS are concentrated all those virtues which tend to promote healthy and vigorous life. Unlike the generality of bitters, they are not an alcoholic mixture, but a pure tonic, composed entirely of vegetable substances. They are a positive cure for

I am the recipient from you of one of the greatest favors that can be conferred upon man, viz: That of health. For many years have I suffered from one of the most annoying and debilitating complaints that the human family can be afflicted with, Chronic Diarrhœa.

During the long time I was suffering from this disease I was attended by regular physicians, giving me but temporary relief. The cause seemed to remain until I was induced to try Hoofland's German Bitters. After the use of a few bottles of that valuable medicine, the complaint appeared to be completely eradicated.

I often inwardly thank you for such a valuable specific, and, whenever I have an opportunity, cheerfully recommend it, with full confidence in its reliability.

Truly, yours, JOHN B. WICKERSHAM.

GENTLEMEN: In reply to your inquiry as to the effect produced by the use of "Hoofland's German Bitters" in my family, I have no hesitation whatever in saying that it has been highly beneficial. In one instance, a case of dyspepsia, of about thirteen years' standing, and which had become very distressing, the use of one bottle gave decided relief, the second effecting a cure, and the third, it seems, has confirmed the cure, for there has been no symptoms of its return for the last six years. In my individual use of it, I find it to be an unequaled tonic, and sincerely recommend its use to the sufferers.

NATIONAL BANKING SYSTEM.

The State Banks and the National Banks.

IN ASSEMBLY, April 6, 1864.

MINORITY REPORT

Of the Committee on Banks on the Bill entitled "An Act to authorize Banks, Banking Associations, Corporations or Individuals, incorporated by or under the laws of the State of New-York, to become Banking Associations under the laws of the United States."

Mr. BRANDRETH, from the minority of the Committee on Banks, to which was referred the bill entitled "An Act to authorize banks, banking associations, corporations or individuals, incorporated by or under the laws of the State of New-York, to become banking associations under the laws of the United States," reports that the said committee, having had the same under consideration, and come to an unfavorable determination, he dissenting widely from the views and conclusions they have laid before the Assembly, now begs leave to submit the following

MINORITY REPORT.

At an early day during the present session of the Legislature, he introduced the bill now under consideration, to facilitate the transformation of our State banks into national banking associations.

He deemed it advisable thus to avoid conflict at the present crisis of our public affairs between State and Federal jurisdiction. Indeed, Congress had contemplated such a mode of proceeding and made provision for it in the National Currency Act of 1863, entitled "An Act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States stocks, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved Feb. 25, 1863, in the following terms:

SEC. 61. And be it further enacted, That any banking association or corporation lawfully in existence as a bank of circulation on the first day of January, A. D. 1863, organized in any State, either under a special act of incorporation or a general banking law, may, at any time within —— years after the passage of this act, become an association under the provisions of this act; that in such case, the certificate of association provided for by this act shall be signed by the directors of such banking association or corporation, and, in addition to the specifications required by this act, shall specify that such directors are authorized by the owners of two-thirds of the capital stock of such banking association or corporation to make such certificate of association, and such certificate of association shall thereafter have the same effect, and the same proceedings shall be had thereon, as is provided for as to other associations organized under this act. And such association or corporation thereafter shall have the same powers and privileges, and shall be subject to the same duties, responsibilities and rules, in all respects, as is prescribed in this act for other associations organized under it, and shall be held and regarded as an association under this act.

SEC. 62. And be it further enacted, That any bank or banking association authorized by any State law to engage in the business of banking, and duly organized under such State law at the time of the passage of this act, and which shall be the holder and owner of United States bonds to the amount of fifty per centum of its capital stock, may transfer and deliver to the Treasurer of the United States such bonds, or any part thereof, in the manner provided by this act; and upon making such transfer and delivery, such bank or banking association shall be entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the currency circulating notes, as herein provided, equal in amount to eighty per centum of the amount of the bonds so transferred and delivered.

It will be readily perceived from these sections, that any State banking institution can become a national bank by simple compliance with these provisions, without an enabling act of the Legislature. No advantage, therefore, is secured by refusing to authorize the change.

But such refusal must operate prejudicially to the interest of the entire community. A State bank preparatory to organization as a national institution must wind up its business, obtain the appointment of a receiver, call in its outstanding loans, and not only be involved in a needless and heavy expense, but inflict serious inconvenience wherever its transactions have extended. It was for the purpose of obviating these evils that the bill now under consideration was prepared and introduced.

The opponents of this proposed measure complain that it would exempt a large amount of property from taxation. This objection is feeble and invalid. State banks can escape taxation by investing their capital in United States stocks, or by abandonment of their charters as State institutions, and organizing anew as National banks. This bill therefore does not confer such exemption, but merely provides against the hazard to the public which the change would involve.

The exempting of the stocks of the Federal Government from taxation is not a new feature in national financial legislation. United States bonds have always enjoyed this immunity. Every Democratic President who has affixed his signature to a bill authorizing a public debt has thereby placed a certain amount of property beyond the reach of the tax-gatherer. The war debt of 1812–15, the capital of the United States Bank and the stocks and bonds issued by the Federal Government since that period, paid no tax to State authority. The Financial Minister of Mr. LINCOLN's administration, and the legislation of Congress under his auspices, introduced no new polity in this respect, but actually followed the administration of POLK and BUCHANAN in 1846, when the Mexican war debt was incurred.

Of this policy we have no right to complain. It was initiated by stubborn necessity, and its wisdom has been confirmed by the experience of over half a century. A Government in peril or any extraordinary exigency, must employ every feasible means to uphold itself, even at the risk of disregarding and offending casuistical persons, standing ready to criticise every measure not in accordance with their peculiar views of administrative propriety.

There was once a grammarian who blamed the great FREDERICK for his defective syntax, when that monarch was engaged in the maintenance of Prussian national existence; there are men now engaged in scrutinizing every effort of our rulers to uphold the existence and integrity of the United States, eager and quick-sighted as vultures to descry something at which to find fault. They are moral dyspeptics or malignant disloyalists, and are thus employed because fault-finding is their vocation. They would find discord even in the music of the spheres or the anthems of a choir of angels.

Finance, always important to the welfare of a nation, becomes vitally so in a period of war. Our own Federal Government has been compelled to give it paramount attention. To some extent precedents may have been disregarded, but then the circumstances were out of the line of precedent. No European nation in modern history has been involved in a contest like this. It is no matter of wonder or censure if the Financial Minister of the United States shall have departed somewhat from the line of precedent laid down by the respectable old-fashioned Chancellors of the Exchequer in the other hemisphere. But a patriot will be diligent and earnest to strengthen him in his efforts to assure the pecuniary integrity of the country during the present contest, rather than acute and zealous to find out and blazon abroad what he may regard as a possible mistake. Defective as Mr. CHASE's policy may appear, it is the financial policy of the Government, and its overthrow at this time would be likely to work disaster. We have a rebellion on our hands, a conspiracy of traitors to circumvent and put down, a country to preserve for our posterity and the world, and we cannot afford to pause in our efforts because professional alarmists are sounding the tocsin and fulminating their anathemas because those who are bearing the responsibility have acted without taking their advice.

The bill now under consideration is an attempt to conform the financial system of our State to that of the nation, to the end that New-York may be a supporter, not a rival, of the Federal Government. The inducements to transmute our State banks into national banking associations are twofold; to secure all the advantages proffered by the Federal Government in the way of deposits and circulation, and the prevention of the organization of rival institutions. The national currency has a more general circulation, is more acceptable to the great majority of our people, and therefore remains longer afloat than the issues of local banks not backed by the credit of the nation. If it is really desired to prevent the formation of the new banks in this State, an enabling act, such as the bill now before us, must be passed by this Legislature. Hence the adversaries of this measure, and not Mr. CHASE, are the real enemies of the banks of the State of New-York.

There would seem to exist a purpose to array our moneyed institutions in solid column against the financial policy of the Secretary of the Treasury, and to employ them to fight the battle for those who are unfriendly to that Minister. So eager and determined is this hostility, that a wanton disposition is manifested to throw away all the advantages and benefits which the national currency act of 1863 proposes to confer. Who could have devised a better plan to raise money than the one employed by Mr. CHASE? Let those who are now so bitter on him remember how desperate our affairs looked when he assumed the direction of our finances. All Europe predicted that we would have to borrow our money abroad. The nations then were so hostile that it seemed impossible, and hence it was declared that we must fail for want of the sinews of war. But Mr. CHASE first tested the patriotism of the New-York bankers before sending any bonds abroad; and they nobly responded; for which the nation should be forever grateful. When the supply was comparatively exhausted, his ingenuity devised the present system. This consists of making our bonds a basis of banking, and issuing ninety per cent. of them in national currency, receivable for taxes, &c., but not legal-tender. Then the national banks are required to redeem their paper in demand notes of the United States. This gives the latter a good circulation, while the fact that both are received for United States bonds is certain to give us a strong currency, and exactly meet the requirements of the Western States, sure to be ultimately redeemed in gold, as national bank notes are issued on bonds that must be paid in specie. When they are paid, the national bank bills will also be redeemed in coin.

It is true that perhaps the same thing might have been accomplished without national banks, but it is a great question whether enough persons could have been made interested in demand notes alone to have circulated over four or five hundred millions; but by these banks, and two systems of currency, the nation can carry over eight hundred millions of circulation. It is no war on New-York banks, because the Currency Act provides, that when two-thirds of the stockholders of any bank wish to change, they can do so by consenting in writing, and thus easily share the advantages of national banks. Then is it fair to abuse the paper system of Mr. CHASE, when it displays so much ingenuity and talent, and has carried us safely so far?

We should always praise and not blame a bridge that carries us safely over our financial chasm; and no one has the right to carp or denounce his policy in this emergency without first being able to devise a better. Such criticisms and denunciations are unwise, unpatriotic and unfair; better becoming a disciple of JOHN C. CALHOUN than a loyal citizen. Even truth, when presented in such a spirit, is rendered odious.

It is usual to preface such unfriendly exhibitions as appears in the majority report by declarations that there is no intention to call in question the expenditure of men and means necessary to suppress this gigantic rebellion; and that every act of the Federal Government ought to receive the most charitable allowance, in view of the remarkable difficulties which it was forced suddenly and without preparation to encounter. Having said this much by way of introduction, as a veil of gauze to dissemble the motive, it does not take long to commence a most bitter, malignant and untruthful attack upon the National Administration—to denounce its actions as violations of the Constitution, and the measures adopted by its subordinate officers as unlawful and unjustifiable; and finally to attempt to demonstrate that the management of the finances of the country, though acknowledged to have been absolutely necessary in the emergency, and admirably successful in its results, is a blunder and a crime. Is it a blunder to refuse to pay 7 3-10 per cent. for money when it can be borrowed at 5 per cent.? Is it a crime to refuse to be the tool of capitalists, speculators and stock-brokers? Shall rates of interest be made to suit them or the emergency? It is the Wall-street cormorants that are the real enemies of Secretary CHASE. Why? Because he will not let them gorge at the expense of the Government. They speak in the majority report as much as the committee.

Such attacks are unworthy of patriots and statesmen. They sound natural only in the mouth of an enemy of the Republic; and coming from professed Union men, they would seem to constitute irrefragable evidence of treachery, if not of political insanity.

Timid and unnecessary apprehension of onerous taxation would seem to have driven other members of the Committee on Banks to take the fatal step of affixing their names to a report which had evidently been written in implacable hostility to the National Administration, filled with vituperation not demanded by the nature of the subject, the tone and sentiments of which characterize only the extreme adversaries of the Government, north and south.

The people have signified their approval of the acts of the Administration, while its enemies are becoming feebler every day. Almost two-thirds of our territory has been recovered to the Union, and the country is far stronger now in men, ships, money, and in the means of waging war, than when ABRAHAM LINCOLN assumed the guidance of the nation, and this, too, in spite of three years of unparalleled warfare.

New-Hampshire, Connecticut, and Rhode Island have undertaken to be indexes of the popular judgment. They sanction the acts of the Government as just and constitutional, and they affirm aloud that American patriots have confidence in its financial policy.

It is to be regretted that anybody should perceive in the national banking associations, and their alleged exemption from taxation, only an infringement of the rights and sovereignty of the States. Yet this is unwarranted. As long ago as 1819 the Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of McCulloch vs. The State of Maryland, held that "the States have no power, by taxation or otherwise, to retard, impede, burden, or in any manner control the constitutional laws enacted by Congress to carry into effect the powers vested in the National Government. This principle does not extend to a tax paid by the real property of the Bank of the United States, in common with other real property in a particular State, nor to a tax imposed on the proprietary interest which the citizens of that State may hold in this institution, in common with other property of the same description throughout the State." (4 Wheaton, p. 137.)

This doctrine has been fully carried out by an act of the Legislature of 1863, recently sustained by the Court of Appeals. Under this decision of Chief Justice MARSHALL, just cited, there need be no apprehension that the $109,000,000 will be withdrawn from the aggregate valuation of taxable property of the State. That the majority of the committee are also of this opinion is apparent from this extract from their report, tenth page:

"So vast are the interests connected with this question of exemption from State taxation, that we hazard nothing in expressing the conviction that if the courts should rule in favor of relieving national banks from the burdens imposed upon the community in which they are located, the first succeeding Congressional election would be sufficient to blot the law of their existence from the statute books. But we do not think that such alternative will be presented. Without expressing an opinion on the naked question of the right of the State to tax the property of its citizens when directly and simply invested in the bonds of the Government, there is enough in the more remote investment in bank stock—in the business of banking, with its profits on circulation, discounts, deposits, and exchange—to bring it within the purview of State taxation."

Then why alarm us with the idea that $190,000,000 is to escape taxation? It is well known that the great majority of Union men everywhere are opposed to such exemption; and the bill under consideration provides expressly against it. The timid may take heart and banish the fear that $2,000,000,000 will be permanently exempted from taxation leaving the burdens of Government to fall with crushing force upon holders of real estate. There are two methods of remedying such a condition of things. When the war shall have been concluded, the General Government may issue new bonds, which shall be liable to taxation, and liquidate the present obligations with the proceeds. Or Congress and the States may pass laws taxing the income of all citizens, however derived. England has tried both methods successfully. Redundancy of currency is not the great cause of the present high prices. The high rates of duty upon all imported articles, taxes upon all domestic manufactures, and prodigal extravagance, must bear much of the responsibility. The increased cost of every article of consumption has rendered necessary five times the volume of currency required in ordinary periods. But upon the return of peace this condition of things will disappear. Besides, all wars have to be conducted on a system of credits. Nations engaged in them resort speedily to paper currency. What the experience of mankind sanctions as necessary, ought not to be cited as a theme for denunciation. England, with a territory hardly twice the dimensions of our own Empire State, and a population of some 27,000,000, has an indebtedness of $4,000,000,000. What then will we bear with a territory of three million of square miles?

The United States are rapidly multiplying their inhabitants, productive industry is ever on the alert for new channels, and our resources are far from being developed. Forty more years of peace, with our wealth and population increasing in geometrical progression, must annihilate our pecuniary burdens. The Old World will eventually repudiate her debts, incurred to sustain her effete civilization; but the dawning of the morning of the Twentieth Century of our era will witness our Republic ascending to the zenith of her glory, freed from her loads as miraculously as was BUNYAN's Pilgrim at the foot of the cross, and ushering in humanity to a renovated existence.

With these convictions, honestly entertained, the undersigned respectfully submits for the consideration of the Assembly the following bill, and recommends it passage.

G. A. BRANDRETH,
Minority of Committee on Banks.

AN ACT to authorize banks, banking associations, corporations or individuals, incorporated by or under the laws of the State of New-York, to become banking associations under the laws of the United States.

The people of the State of New-York represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Any bank, banking association, corporation or individual incorporated by or under the laws of this State, at the time of the passage of the act of Congress, approved the 25th day of February in the year 1863, entitled "An Act to provide a national currency, secured by a pledge of United States stocks, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," may at any time within two years after the passage of this act, become an association under the provisions of said act of Congress; provided, that the owners of two-thirds of the capital stock consent thereto, and when the directors have procured the authority of the owners of two-thirds of the capital stock to make the certificate of association as required by said act of Congress; the cashier shall publish notice thereof in some newspaper published in the city or county where such bank, banking association, corporation or individual incorporated aforesaid is located for at least thirty days; should no newspaper be published in such city or county such notice shall be published as the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States shall direct. Said cashier shall send like printed notice by mail to the Superintendent of the Banking Department of this State, and to each stockholder.

SEC. 2. Nothing contained in this act shall be so construed as to exempt the shares of the capital stock of any association organised under the laws of the United States or the income or dividend derived therefrom, from taxation under the laws of this State.

SEC. 3. Nothing contained in this act shall be construed as releasing such association from its obligations to pay and discharge all the liabilities incurred before becoming such association; and it shall be continued a body cooporate for the term of three years after having become an association under the laws of the United States, for the purpose of prosecuting and defending suits by and against it, and to enable it to close its concerns and to dispose of and convey its property, but not for the purpose of continuing under the laws of this State the business for which it was established.

THE TEXAS BLOCKADE.

DESTRUCTION OF THE STEAMER CLIFTON.

A REBEL STEAMER RUNS INTO VELASCO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

UNITED STATES STEAMER ARKANSAS,
NEW-ORLEANS, Saturday, April 2, 1864.

This steamer, under the command of Capt. DAVID CATE, arrived at this city last evening from a cruise to the blockading squadrons off the coast of Texas. She brings the gratifying intelligence of the total destruction of the rebel steamer Clifton on the night of Monday, March 21. While attempting to run the blockade at Sabine Pass, with over 700 bales cotton, she got aground on the bar. The rebels made every possible exertion to get her off, throwing overboard a large quantity of cotton to lighten her, but all their efforts were futile; she remained immovable, and they were obliged to destroy her, or see her fall into the hands of the hated "Yankees." They, therefore, set her on fire, and she, with all her remaining cargo, was soon totally consumed. The cotton bales thrown overboard were seen floating around by several of the blockading fleet, who were prevented by the roughness of the sea from securing them. The Clifton was formerly the United States gunboat of that name, and, together with the United States steamer Sachem, was captured by the rebels at Sabine in September last. It has been frequently reported by deserters and refugees, who come off to the fleet in considerable numbers, that the rebels were fitting her up as "cotton-clad," and were coming out to attack the blockading fleet. Her heavy armament and great steam power would have made her a very formidable antagonist, and her destruction is truly a matter of rejoicing. Her wreck now lies on the bar in full view of the fleet, and has already been visited by some of our adventurous officers and sailors. A large cotton-loaded schooner was also driven ashore some days since near Velasco (Brazos River) by a blockader, and was abandoned and fired by the rebels after they had thrown over a portion of her cargo in their efforts to get her off. The Arkansas fell in with and secured fourteen bales of her cotton, weighing about 7,500 pounds, worth about $5,000, which will be quite a windfall for her officers and crew, among whom the proceeds will be divided. Thus it appears that some of the blockade-runners are coming to grief. But, per contra, it is also reported that some weeks since a large side-wheel steamer, with a large and valuable cargo, (among other things, 4,000 stand of arms for the Confederate Government,) endeavored to run into Galveston, but, being driven off by the fleet, made another essay to run into Velasco, and, favored by a dense fog, succeeded, but got aground on the bar, where, when the fog lifted, she was discovered by the gunboat stationed there, which immediately got under way and endeavored to capture or destroy her. Several shots were fired at her, but the rebel batteries on shore opened fire on the gunboat, and having guns of longer range, were enabled to throw their shot and shell all around and over her, (though fortunately none struck her,) while her missiles were not able to reach the shore; she was, therefore, compelled to withdraw, and when the tide rose the blockade runner got off and proceeded into port. Deserters report that she is now loaded with 1,100 bales of cotton, and is waiting a favorable opportunity to run out. She came down to the bar a day or two since, but, for some reason, went back again. Our vigilant blockaders are on the lookout for her, and are sanguine in their expectations of capturing her when she comes out. We sincerely hope they may succeed in doing so, as she, with her cargo, which belongs to the rebel Government, is worth at least a million dollars. A number of other vessels (among them the Harriet Lane) are also known to be preparing to run out, and we hope ere long to see them sent in as prizes to some of our cruisers. The Arkansas also brings a number of passengers and deserters from the rebel army. They report much and increasing privation and dissatisfaction in the rebel ranks. Among other circumstances, they state that during the "cold spell" in January over ninety rebel soldiers were frozen to death in MAGRUDER's army, and the others endured almost inconceivable sufferings. Let us hope that their bitter experience will soon effectually sicken them of rebellion, and induce them to return to their allegiance.

THE BATTLE OF OLUSTEE.

Gen. Gillmore's Report—The Object of the Florida Expedition—Gen. Seymour's Advance Against Orders.

HEADQUARTERS, D. S.,
HILTON HEAD, S. C., March 7, 1864.

Maj.-Gen. Halleck, General-in-Chief, U. S. A., Washington, D. C.:

I have the honor to submit herewith copies of certain letters and telegraphic dispatches which comprise the instructions given to Brig.-Gen. T. SEYMOUR, relative to operations in Florida prior to the fight at Olustee on the 20th ult. A brief narrative of events connected with the recent occupation of Florida, west of the St. John's River, will not be out of place.

Under date of the 22d December, 1863, I was authorized by you to undertake such operations in my department as I might deem best, suggesting conference with Admiral DAHLGREN, &c.

On Jan. 14, 1864, I wrote you that, unless it would interfere with the views of the War Department, I should occupy the west bank of the St. John's River in Florida very soon, and establish small depots there, preparatory to an advance west at an early day.

On Jan. 15, I wrote to the Secretary of War that I had in contemplation the occupation of Florida on the west bank of the St. John's River at an early day.

Under date of Jan. 22 you informed me that in regard to my proposed operation in Florida, the Secretary replied that the matter had been left entirely to my judgment and discretion, with the means at my command, and that as the object of the proposed expedition had not been explained, it was impossible for you to judge of its advantages or practicability.

On Jan. 31 I wrote informing you that the objects to be attained by the operations were:

1. To procure an outlet for cotton, lumber, timber, &c.
2. To cut off one of the enemy's sources of commissary supplies, &c.
3. To obtain recruits for any colored regiment.
4. To inaugurate measures for the speedy restoration of Florida to her allegiance, in accordance with instructions which I had received from the President by the hands of Major JOHN H. HAY, Assistant Adjutant-General.

On Feb. 5, I directed Gen. SEYMOUR, whose command was already embarked, to go to Jacksonville, Fla., effect a landing there, and push forward his mounted force to Baldwin, 20 miles from Jacksonville, the junction of the two railroads from Jacksonville and Fernandina. A portion of the command reached Baldwin on the 9th, at which point I joined it on the evening of the same day. At that time the enemy had no force in East Florida, except the scattered fragments of Gen. FINNEGAN's command; we had taken all his artillery. On the 10th, a portion of our force was sent toward Sanderson, and I returned to Jacksonville. Telegraphic communication was established between Baldwin and Jacksonville on the 11th. On that day I telegraphed to Gen. SEYMOUR not to risk a repulse on advancing on Lake City, but to hold Sanderson, unless there were reasons for falling back, which I did not know; and also, in case his advance met with any serious opposition, to concentrate at Sanderson and the south fork of the St. Mary's, and, if necessary, to bring back Col. HENRY to the latter place.

On the 12th Gen. SEYMOUR informed me from Sanderson that he should fall back to the South Fork of the St. Mary's as soon as Col. HENRY, whom he had ordered back from the front, had returned. On the same day I telegraphed to Gen. SEYMOUR that I wanted his command at and beyond Baldwin concentrated at Baldwin without delay for reasons which I gave him. Gen. SEYMOUR joined me at Jacksonville on the 14th, the main body of his command being at that time at Baldwin as directed. He had, however, sent Col. HENRY toward the left to capture some railroad trains at Gainsville, on the Fernandina and Cedar Keys Railroad.

After arranging with Gen. SEYMOUR for the construction of certain defences at Jacksonville, Baldwin, and the South Fork of the St. Mary's, I started for Hilton Head on the 16th, leaving behind me Capt. REESE, of the Engineers, to give the necessary instructions for the defences referred to. I considered it well understood at that time between Gen. SEYMOUR and myself that no advance should be made without further instructions from me, nor until the defences were well advanced.

On the 18th I was greatly surprised at receiving a letter from Gen. SEYMOUR, dated the 17th, stating that he intended to advance without supplies, in order to destroy the railroad near the Savanna River, 100 miles from Jacksonville.

I at once dispatched Gen. TURNER to Jacksonville to stop the movement. He was the bearer of a letter to Gen. SEYMOUR. Upon arriving at Jacksonville, after considerable delay, due to the inclemency of the weather, he learned that Gen. SEYMOUR was engaged with the enemy in front, near Olustee, 48 miles from Jacksonville by railroad.

When I left Jacksonville on the 15th ult., I was entirely satisfied with the success of our operations up to that time. I briefly communicated to you my plans with regard to Florida in my letter of Feb. 15, from which I extract as follows:

"Gen. SEYMOUR's advance has been within four miles of Lake City, but as his instructions were not to risk a repulse, or make an attack when there was a prospect of incurring much loss, he has taken up a position at Baldwin, the junction of the railroad from Jacksonville with the one from Fernandina. He holds also the crossing of the St. Mary's South Fork, about 12 miles west of Baldwin.

I intend to construct small works capable of resisting a coup-de-main at Jacksonville, Baldwin, Pilatka and perhaps one or two other important points, so strong that 200 or 300 men will be sufficient at each point.

Twenty-five hundred men, in addition to the two regiments that have been permanently stationed in this State (one at St. Augustine and one at Fernandina,) ought to be ample in Florida."

The artillery captured here will suffice for such defensive works as may be deemed necessary.

I desire to see the lumber and turpentine trade on the St. John's River revived by loyal men, and for that purpose, and to give assurance that our occupation of this river is intended to be permanent, I have written to the Secretary of the Treasury, recommending that the port of Jacksonville be declared open.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
Q. A. GILLMORE, Maj.-Gen. Com.

CONFISCATION IN NEW-YORK.

Confiscation—Service of Process—Aid and Comfort to the Rebellion.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

Before Judge Betts.

The United States vs. 1,756 shares of the Capital Stock of the Great Western Company.—The following is the full opinion of Judge BETTS in denying the motion for a final decree of condemnation in this case:

BETTS, J.—Various proceedings have been taken in this suit since the return of the process of attachment and monition therein, terminating in an application on the part of the United States Attorney to the court to sign a final decree confiscating the property named in the libel of information, upon the foundation of the interlocutory decree of default rendered upon the return of the process and the proclamation thereupon in open court.

On hearing the motion the Court remarked orally, that it did not appear satisfactorily that the antecedent steps in the cause thus far had placed it in a situation to justify the consummation of the interlocutory decree and have the absolute confiscation of the property pronounced.

The warrant of attachment against the above-mentioned shares was served by the Marshal Sept. 15, 1863, symbolically, and not by positive seizure and detention of the property, or a personal notice of its arrest given to the alleged owner of it. The official return signed by the Marshal is "I attached the 1,756 shares of the within described stock on the 25th day of August, 1863, and have given the notice, &c., &c.," and he adds in pencil, "Copy served personally upon E. T. H. GIBSON, transfer agent Western Railroad Company of 1859, and copy served upon GEO. GRISWOLD, treasurer of said corporation, by leaving it with a clerk in his office, Aug. 26, 1863" And this appears to have been the entire method employed by the officer in executing the process.

No proof is furnished that WILEY ever had, individually, notice of the suit pending, or any knowledge that this property was proceeded against, as confiscable to the Government because of his criminal conduct.

The evidence is full that he was a resident in the State of Alabama before these legal proceedings were instituted, and has since continued to reside within the rebel States.

The District Attorney insists that the course pursued in this prosecution "conforms as nearly as may be to proceedings in Admiralty and revenue cases," pursuant to the practice appointed by the act of Congress of July 17, 1862, (12 Stats. at Large, 591, § 7,) and that the arrest of property in prize or revenue actions duly returned by the Marshal on the warrant of attachment, affords legal and adequate notice to all persons interested in the property, upon which return the condemnation of the property may be demanded, if proper parties fail to intervene and make claim to it in court.

This is so from the principle that when property is by manucaption brought into the actual custody of the law on prosecutions in those actions, that fact and the open possession of the seized property imports notice to all persons interested therein of its condition, tantamount to a personal warning thereof. (2 Brown, Civ. and Adm. Law, 446, 447; Benedict's Pr., § 438-9; Halleck on International Law, Ch. 31, § 21, 24; Upton on Mar. War, 40P, 402.)

No rule of law affords like effect to an indirect service of process without additional evidence that other efficient means had been employed to render the warning positive. Such secondary means of making the evidence complete on an arrest in kind of property proceeded against in rem, might possibly be allowable under the method anciently authorized in admiralty, of executing the warrant and citation viis et modis; (Hall's Ad., Pr. title 21, add. art. 45;) but will scarcely furnish warrant of law for substituting choses in action, or mere evidence of indebtment in lieu of tangible property, as a means of bringing a party in judicia, and having thereupon final judgment and execution.

No equivalent steps in this case, however, have placed these shares of stock within the cognizance of the court for final condemnation by default, conformably to any known proceedings of like character "in admiralty or revenue cases."

There is no proof before the court that WILEY has exercised any acts of ownership over the stock, or recognized it as his property. The agents of the corporation, who have testified on this subject, nowhere state that he purchased the property, received dividends from it, or participated in its management, or claimed an interest in the stock standing in his name. The fact of its registry in his name undoubtedly raises a strong presumption that he possesses an important charge or power in respect to it, and that it is intrinsically valuable; but the proof is not incompatible with his being a mere bailee of the property, or that the vital value of it appertains in whole to third parties, as a large proportion of it apparently, on the papers in evidence in this motion is now absorbed by the lien of Mr. BLATCHFORD, which may favor the inference that all the essential interests in the investment are in the same predicament, leaving the seizure of the property of no pecuniary concern to WILEY, the nominal holder of it, and thus imparting no notice of its seizure to holders of legal right or liens thereon.

The court cannot, therefore, safely accept a merely constructive arrest of this stock in the mode made by the Marshal as equivalent in law to a positive seizure and absolute possession of it on claim of right by the officer, so as to operate a notice to all the world of the dispossession of all right of WILEY to it.

I do not consider it clear that a procedure so conducted in admiralty or revenue cases would carry with it a sure title to property sold under it, which is not proved to have been actually possessed by the alleged owner, nor to have been reduced tangibly to that of the Marshal.

Moreover, if the legal proceedings are accepted to have been formally correct, I think there is cause for doubt whether the corpus delicti, the alleged ground for the forfeiture of these shares, has been established by adequate evidence. The judgment only determined that WILEY was an alien enemy, incapacitated to appear personally in court and contest the subject-matter of the suit. It did not decide other extrinsic facts, either that the shares of stock proceeded against in this action belonged to him, or that they or any other of his means or estate had been used by him or with his consent for the aid or comfort of the enemy. Before signing a decree confiscating these effects, the court called upon the prosecution for supplementary proofs upon these points. The evidence then before the court showed that a large sum of these shares, if belonging to WILEY, were charged with a lien to a loyal creditor and were not condemnable to the libelants; and evidence was wanting to show that any surplus in value beyond the amount of that privileged lien would remain for a decree of the court to act upon.

The provisions of the statute of March 3, 1863, securing to loyal citizens payment of their liens upon property condemned under the Confiscation Acts of July 13, 1861, and Aug. 6, 1861, directs the court "notwithstanding such condemnation and before awarding such property, or the proceeds thereof, to the United States or informer, first to provide for the payment out of the proceeds of such property of any bona fide claims which shall be filed by any loyal citizen of the United States * * * duly established."

This enactment is subsequent to the one in section 7, of the act of July 17, 1862, which declares that if property "real or personal shall be found to have belonged to a person engaged in rebellion, or who has given aid or comfort thereto, the same shall be condemned as enemies' property and become the property of the United States, and may be disposed of as the court shall decree, and the proceeds thereof paid into the Treasury of the United States" for the purposes aforesaid. The construction of the two statutes probably exacts in order to secure full effect to each, that the condemnation of the property of rebels as required, shall be suspended in its disposal, until the court has ascertained and discharged the privileged heirs designated; because the act of 1863 requires the creditors' claim to be "first provided for, before awarding the property to the United States," and does not intend that the mere decree of condemnation of the property shall constitute the United States owners of it or of its proceeds.

The court would seem, therefore, to be cautioned before disbursing the proceeds of a seizure not adjudged to belong to the United States, to have information through satisfactory evidence that the moneys so applied to an outside party, are produced from the property of the real debtor of the property, otherwise the Government might thus be made to assume and satisfy debts owing by WILEY, without having acquired a lawful ownership of the property used by their authority for that purpose.

The evidence that WILEY was actual owner of the stock in question, consists only of the ambiguous presumption drawn from the registry entry on the books of the railroad incorporation, of such stock in his name.

I think the court rightly called for proof showing personal acts of his claiming, acting upon or enforcing his title as owner by receiving dividends, making transfers, voting upon the stock or other manifestations of right thereto, such as usually attend the management of like property. Testimony of that character may no doubt be readily obtained from officers, agents or copartners, resident in this country transacting business with the copartnership.

The deposition of Mr. GIBBS, having a long personal acquaintance with WILEY, was read on the part of the Government, to prove the affiliation and illicit connection of WILEY with the rebel and Confederate States and the rebellion, thus rendering aid and comfort thereto, but I think it is not satisfactorily direct and explicit in its statements to establish the criminality of WILEY's personal conduct unequivocally. It rather represents the general repute of WILEY as to his loyalty toward the United States, and sentiments in respect to secession and the rebellion than specific acts or declarations of hostility to the Government and favoring the rebellion. The impression of the witness, from the mode of his conversation, was, that he was a zealous and enthusiastic rebel, and he was generally considered such in the community where he resided in the rebel States. There is, undoubtedly, most reasonable grounds for the gravest suspicions, that that was his true feeling and character; but I find only an instance or two in which the witness identifies acts or declarations of WILEY, (then residing in the seceded States, and in the midst of rebels,) plainly in interdiction of the acts of Congress; although it is plainly to be inferred that the witness, if pointedly examined upon the subject, might have furnished evidence of a more accusatory and convicting character in respect to his acts of hostility and disloyalty toward the Government. My opinion is, that further proofs respecting the ownership of WILEY in the shares of railroad stock in prosecution in this suit; his actual knowledge or notice of the pending prosecution in this court against the same, and also of acts of aid or comfort given by him to the rebels during the existing war, should be supplied by the libelants before they can be entitled to claim the final decree sought in the cause.

Twenty days additional time is allowed the District Attorney to take such proofs, and submit them to the consideration of the court.

THE WAR IN ARKANSAS.

GEN. STEELE'S PROGRESS.

From the Chicago Times, April 9.

We have intelligence from Gen STEELE up to the 4th or 5th of the present month, at which time he had reached Arkadelphia. This place is situated eighty miles South-west of Little Rock, on the Wachita River. At Arkadelphia Gen. STEELE seems to have divided his forces, and sent one portion on the road leading from Little Rock to Fulton, a town above Shreveport, on Red River, while the other crossed the Wachita to the east bank, and started down the river to a point called Camden, situated on the west bank of the river, and distant from Arkadelphia, some forty-five miles. From Camden, a road runs directly west and intersects the Little Rock and Fulton road at a point called Washington. It was supposed that PRICE would make a stand at this point; and this, therefore, will account for STEELE's division of forces at Arkadelphia—a portion being designed to move directly upon Washington, while the remainder took the rebels in flank by advancing from the direction of Camden. Thus far STEELE's advance has met with no opposition, although MARMADUKE and CABELL appear to have kept just in front of him, watching his movements, and falling back as he advanced.

Camden and Washington are both northeast from Shreveport, and distant from that place about 100 miles.

At the same time with STEELE's advance across Arkansas, there appears to be a parallel movement by the army from Fort Smith. Dispatches from that point published two or three days since, mention an expedition headed by Col. CLAYTON into the Saline River country. This river empties into Red River, about 150 miles above Shreveport, and the point visited by CLAYTON lies directly in the rear of Washington, and is on the road by which PRICE is or has been falling back towards Texas.

If PRICE makes a stand at Washington, he will be menaced on his front and right by STEELE, and on his left and rear by the Army of the Frontier.

Judging from what we can learn of PRICE's strength, from the fact that he is menaced from so many directions, it does not seem probable that he will make any determined stand this side of the Texas line. STEELE and PRICE have met each other on the battle-field at a place—Wilson's Creek—where STEELE did the running. This time the operation will be reversed.

OBITUARY.

Death of W. D. Ticknor, Esq., of Boston.

From the Philadelphia Press, of April 11.

With unaffected sorrow we record the death of Mr. TICKNOR, of the well-known firm of TICKNOR & FIELDS, publishers, Boston. It occurred, yesterday morning, at the Continental Hotel, in this city. Mr. Ticknor arrived here on Tuesday, accompanying his friend, NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE, Esq., the author, whose health demanded change of scene and air. On Thursday both gentlemen called upon the writer of this obituary, who heard with pleasure that Mr. HAWTHORNE's health already had improved, brief as his absence from his New-England home had been, and noticed that Mr. TICKNOR looked remarkably well—apparently enjoying rude health. That afternoon, both gentlemen took a drive to Point Breeze Park, in company with a friend, and there Mr. TICKNOR first complained of not feeling quite well, saying that he must have taken cold. On Friday morning he sent for a physician, and did not leave his room that day. On Saturday, his doctor considered him so much worse, although not dangerously ill, that he thought it right to telegraph for Mr. TICKNOR's family. That evening he became so much worse that a consulting physician was called in. He was pronounced to be dangerously ill, seemed fully aware of his condition, and repeatedly expressed his sorrow at not being able to take leave of his dear wife and children. Mr. HAWTHORNE, who never left him from the time he was taken ill, held his hand at the moment he breathed his last, and is deeply affected by the severe blow which has deprived him of a friend, counsellor, and man of business. Every attention was paid to Mr. TICKNOR at the Continental during his illness, and his numerous friends in this City were constant and anxious in their inquiries. His family will accompany his remains to Boston this day.

Mr. TICKNOR was fifty-three years old, and had been upward of a quarter of a century in the publishing business. The firm was originally "W. D. TICKNOR & Co," but was changed, several years ago, to "TICKNOR & FIELDS," when Mr. JAMES T. FIELDS, who had been brought up in the establishment, became a partner. The late Mr. TICKNOR was an excellent man of business, and the house of TICKNOR & FIELDS had the good fortune, through kindness and justice to its authors, to stand well with the makers, as well as the purchasers of literature.

We believe the complaint of which Mr. TICKNOR died was congestion of the lungs. He has left a wife and family. One son is in the army. The eldest son, HOWARD TICKNOR, who has been in the establishment since he graduated at Harvard, will probably be the future representative of the family in the firm of TICKNOR & FIELDS.

JOHN C. RIVES.

Mr. RIVES, who died in Washington, on Sunday, was sixty-nine years of age, and his first connection with Washington society dates back to about 1824, when he came from Edwardsville, Ill., (where he was cashier of a bank,) to testify before a Committee of Congress in relation to some operations of the Bank of the United States. He was for a while a clerk in the Fourth Auditor's office, of the Treasury Department, and subsequently a clerk in DUFF GREEN's Telegraph establishment, but early in Gen. JACKSON's Administration he founded with Mr. BLAIR, the Globe. Soon after the sale of that paper to Mr. RITCHIE, in 1845, he reëstablished the Globe as a journal of Congressional proceedings, and it is now considered the official record of debates.

THE RAILROADS IN TENNESSEE.—Mr. B. F. TAYLOR, of the Chicago Journal, writes to that paper from Huntsville, under date of April 4:

"The single slender thread of communication between the army and the North has had a new, strong strand twisted into it, as daily trains are now running on the Nashville and Northwestern, and the Tennessee and Alabama Railroads. By the latter you reach Huntsville and Decatur, striking the Chattanooga road at Stevenson, one hundred and thirteen miles from Nashville, and passing over a capital track through one of the loveliest regions on the continent. Huntsville and its surroundings are an exquisite poem written all abroad. To see their beauty is worth a weary pilgrimage. The Chattanooga, the very Jordan of railroads, ragged to a degree, and as full of perils as a brisk skirmish, now measurably relieved from the ceaseless battering of trains that rendered repairs impossible, is being placed in safer order with the utmost energy. The wrecks of seven engines and one hundred and forty cars, strewing the roadside between Nashville and Bridgeport, are pleasantly suggestive. One consideration remains: the road is as bad as it well can be, and so change and improvement are synonymous. You may wonder, after all this, at my declaration of love for the Chattanooga road, but it has done noble service, and, cast aside its tattered rails as it may, it will have the "right of way" and an everlasting station on the historic page. It was the route to Stone River, to Chickamauga, to the grandeur of Lookout and the glory of Chattanooga. It must be the iron avenue to Atlanta, and who shall say it may not lead to the Atlantic seaboard and the Gulf?

THE PIRATES' BELL.—It seems from the following communication, which appears in the Halifax Morning Times, of March 21, that the Chesapeake had on board, as part of her cargo, a church bell for a religious society in Maine, and that the godly-minded pirates made an offering of that part of her cargo to the Lord (?) by presenting it to a church in Nova Scotia. Here is the communication, headed "The Pirates' Bell:"

To the Editor of the Sun:

SIR: The church bell which the pirates of the Chesapeake stole out of that vessel, and presented to the deacons of a Protestant church in the county of Lunenburg, is still held by the pious deacons of that church; and notwithstanding a demand for its restitution by the congregation in Maine, to which it rightfully belongs, the holy men of Lunenburg kirk still cling to it, and have it jingling up in the steeple of their sanctuary every Lord's Day, to call the sinners of the district to prayers and preaching!

Now that the Chesapeake is given up to her lawful owners, let the kirk bell be given up also. It is "stolen year;" no man can have the fear of God before his eyes who can sit quietly in that kirk while the pirates' bell is sounding its murderous ding, dong, ding, over his head. Send back the bell. SCOTUS.

MUSICAL.

CHICKERING & SONS
MANUFACTURERS OF GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT PIANO-FORTES, No. 652 BROADWAY.—The superiority of these instruments has of late been amply demonstrated by the voluntary testimony of the foremost artists of the day, who claim for them excellencies of tone and workmanship hitherto unobtained by any other makers.
Mr. GOTTSCHALK's constant use of the NEW SCALE CHICKERING GRAND PIANO-FORTES has severely tested their musical qualities, and resulted in establishing the justice of the very flattering estimation in which they are held.

STEINWAY & SONS'
GOLD MEDAL GRAND AND SQUARE PIANOS are now considered the best in Europe as well as this country, having received the first Prize Medal at the World's Exhibition in London, 1862.
The principal reason why the Steinway Pianos are superior to all others, is, that the firm is composed of five practical pianoforte makers, (father and four sons,) who invent all their own improvements, and under whose personal supervision every part of the instrument is manufactured. Warerooms, Nos. 71 and 73 East 14th st., between Union-square and Irving-place, New-York.

MASON & HAMLIN'S CABINET ORGANS, FOR FAMILIES, CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS—Recognized by the musical profession as greatly superior to Harmoniums, Melodeons and all other small organs. [See our illustrated catalogue for explicit testimony to their superiority, from a majority of the most eminent organists in America.] Prices, $85 to $500 each.
CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.—The great reputation which our Cabinet Organs have obtained, and the extensive demand for them, have induced dealers to advertise, in some cases, quite different instruments as Cabinet Organs, and in others to represent to purchasers that Harmoniums and other reed organs are the same thing. This is not true. The excellence of our Cabinet Organs, which have given them their high reputation, are the result not merely of the superiority of their workmanship, but also, in large measure, of essential differences in construction, which, being patented, cannot be imitated by other makers. From these arise their better quality and volume of tone and unrivaled capacity for expression. Warerooms in New-York, No. 7 Mercer-st.

The property of this Company is located in the Township of Butler Schuylkill County, and consists of 2,500 acres of land, about 2,000 acres of which are exclusively coal lands, lying within the great Mahony Coal Basin of the middle anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania; is precisely in range with the Girard lands of the city of Philadelphia, the Brock estate, and other large and productive collieries of this rich coal district.

The large Collieries owned by this Company have all the usual necessary real and personal property, consisting in part of first-class breakers, machinery, miners' houses, offices, mine cars, horses, mules, &c.

The Company is entirely free from debt of any kind.

It is estimated that the Company's Collieries will earn during the nine months ending the 31st of December next, at least fifteen per cent. net upon the capital, will pay a dividend of 2½ per cent. on the 1st of July next, and in all probability one of 5 per cent. on the 1st of October following.

TRANSPORTATION.

The Company's facilities for transportation are by Minehill Railroad, connecting with Reading Railroad at Schuylkill Haven, distance 114 miles from Philadelphia; also by Mahony and Broad Mountain Railroad, (which runs through the entire length of the estate,) distance 107 miles from Philadelphia.

The laterals of these roads now run to each colliery opened or located on the lands.

We are authorized to receive subscriptions for the limited number of 10,000 shares of the stock of the above Company at par, which is all that will be offered for subscription in New-York. $10 per share is payable at the time of subscription and the balance on the 20th instant.

We have no hesitation whatever in calling the attention of our friends and the public to this property.

The books will be open at our office on WEDNESDAY, 13th April instant.
